Politics—Politics—
4 Kinds of Prayers.
Where's the Army?
We've Lent Too Much.

ONE correspondent observes absence of the "hip-hip hooray" spirit in Kansas City.

Politicians are cautious, and how can you "hip-hooray" unless you know what important people are going to do?

Nobody knows what Mr. Mellon will do. Nobody knows what President Coolidge will do. Nobody knows what the delegates will do. Not much hip-hooray in that situation.

ORGANIZED labor has 20 plans ready for both party platforms. One calls for a five-day work week. Another calls for 2.75 beer, fully legalized.

It is safe to tell labor that it will NOT get 2.75 beer, or much of anything else that it asks. But, like the farmers, unions will get beautiful promises and a patting on the back that will make their chests stick out.

CLERGYMEN of four religions will pray for the Republican brethren in Kansas City. An Episcopalian, a Catholic, a Jewish rabbi and a Methodist preacher will ask heaven to help and enlighten. Nothing prevents Christian Scientists from giving the convention absent treatment. It may need it.

Unless very young, you remember Champ Clark's campaign song, "'Taint No Difference If He Is a Hound, You Got to Stop Kicking My Dog Around."

Champ Clark and Woodrow Wilson, who beat him, are both gone. And in this campaign we have two hounds, a Republican oil scandal hound and a Democratic graft hound. They will be kicked around considerably before the campaign end.

"OUR old cat and another one" applies to that army of farmers to march on Kansas City, 100,000 strong, to lay down the law about farm relief.

Only 14 farmers had arrived yesterday, and they must hurry back to attend to crops.

THAT'S the disadvantage of isolated farming. Railroad men and great industrialists that gather at conventions or at Washington, never have to hurry back. They have hired men to run the works while they help run the government.

LONDON'S Financial Times says "America has lent too much money to Europe, and if money remains cheap in London, England will regain her old preeminence as banker for the world."

America's boyish financiers, silly enough to buy Russian bonds from Kerensky, are silly enough for anything.

RECENTLY Europe has been lending in America at 7 per cent money that America lent to Europe at 3½ per cent. "The United States has been heavily overlending," says the British authority. Rather. We began it when we lent ten billions in a war that wasn't ours.

LONDON'S keen financiers watch for opportunities to dip into our markets.

British speculators expect a boom in Wall Street should President Coolidge be nominated again. And they think that quite likely. Everybody will know more about that tomorrow.

THE Paris Temps, authoritative French newspaper, discovers a yellow plot to drive White races from Asia.

Japanese and Chinese are in collusion, according to the Temps, and while hostile on the surface, they are really united in their determination to keep Asia for Asiatics.

This country has no cause of complaint. We are determined to keep America for Americans.

SOME farmers think they need a low tariff, but don't. Tariff protection makes possible high wages, and high wages make it possible for American workers to buy farm products.

This country produces ninety billion dollars' worth of new wealth every year, thirteen billions from the soil, six billions from mines, sixty-three billions from industry.

Cripple that industry with foolish tariff tinkering, and everybody will have trouble.

FRANCE asks this country to join an international committee on large dams, to prevent floods, reclaim land and develop power. Mr. Robbins, Acting Secretary of War, favors the committee.

Our government doubtless will refer the French invitation to our big power men. They have definite ideas on the construction of dams, land reclamation, power development, etc., and especially on the importance of keeping government out of such matters.

Clamor for Band Wagon as First Session Opens—Nomination by Acclamation Possible.

International News Service.

CONVENTION HALL, KANSAS CITY, June 12.—A political band wagon with Herbert Hoover sitting in the driver's seat lumbered into Kansas City's big convention hall today for the first session of the Republican national convention.

There was scarcely a delegate on the floor, nor a party chieftain on the platform, that did not concede the nomination of the candidate on the first ballot, probably Thursday.

State Votes to Go to Commerce Head on First Ballot on Mellon's Advice—Action Unanimous.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 12.—Declaring for Herbert Hoover at the caucus of the Pennsylvania delegation this morning, Secretary of the Treasury A. W. Mellon broke the silence that had up to that time made him not only the dominating figure but the mystery man of this convention as well.

Pennsylvania's 79 delegates promptly and unanimously pledged their votes to Hoover at the conclusion of Secretary Mellon's announcement and CONVENTION HALL, KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 12. The Republicans are going to the country in the 1928 campaign on the issue of general prosperity—and if Calvin Coolidge should be persuaded to again carry the standard, so much the better.

This was the keynote sounded here today by Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, in opening the Republican National Convention, which is beset with bitter and acrimonious struggles over candidates and platform.

Senator Fess did not actually propose the nomination of Mr. Coolidge, but neither did he take him out of consideration—he merely left wide open the door to the "draft" movement, should the convention desire to walk through it, by saying that Mr. Coolidge "appeared" to be set upon retiring, and that many of his friends believed so.

Eulogizes Coolidge

Mr. Coolidge's name was not mentioned by the Ohio keynoter until near the end of his long address. Then, after words of praise such as few conventions have listened to regarding any President save Lincoln, Senator Fess closed with this:

"I once said, and I now repeat my statement. Few are his words, decisive his judgments. His comprehension of problems is broad,

BUSH, SORE AT LOSS, SHIFTS LINEUP

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Sun-Telegraph Staff Correspondent.

PHILADELPHIA, June 12.—His ire aroused over the 6-4 defeat suffered by the Pirates at the hands of the Phillies in the opening game of the series here yesterday, Manager Donie Bush of the Buccaneers has decided to change his lineup for today's struggle. He is going to replace Dick Bartell with Sparky Adams at second base.

Bartell, who has been playing fine ball for the Corsairs since Adams' injury, is not being lifted from the lineup because of his fielding, but rather because Bush believes that Adams will add punch to the Pirate attack.

Remy Kremer will get the hurling job today. He will likely be opposed by Don Miller.

THE WEATHER

Increasing cloudiness probably followed by showers tonight and Wednesday; warmer tonight.

GIRL FLIER UNSEEN ON WAY NORTH

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., June 12.—Overdue at Old Orchard, Me., Mabel Boll, winging northward on the first leg of a flight to Europe, was believed this afternoon to have headed onward to Newfoundland.

The flying "Queen of Diamonds" had hopped off from Roosevelt Field earlier in the day and had been scheduled to reach Old Orchard on the coast of Maine at 10:30 a. m. But north, east, south and west—all points of the compass—failed to yield to eager watchers there a sign of the monoplane Columbia.

No alarm is felt yet. When Miss Boll hopped off her announced plan was to land for refueling either at Old Orchard or Newfoundland.

WAVES GAY FAREWELL

Waving a gay farewell to her mother, the fair Mabel hopped off from Roosevelt Field at 7:19 a. m. (Eastern daylight time).

The former Rochester, N. Y., girl was accompanied by Oliver Le Boutillier, her pilot; Capt. Arthur Argles, navigator, and Andy Saurini, mechanic.

Miss Boll hopes to beat Miss Amelia Earhart, Boston aviatrix now at Trepassey, N. F., with the plane Friendship, in the race to be the first woman to fly across the North Atlantic.

TREPASSEY, N. F., June 12.—Although perfect weather prevailed here, inclement conditions over the Atlantic made it unlikely that the monoplane Friendship would start on its flight to England today.

Miss Amelia Earhart, Wilmer Stultz and Lou Gordon were visibly disappointed by the reports of conditions over the Atlantic, for they had previously announced that they would take off at 10 a. m. today if last night's apparently perfect weather conditions continued.

RUM RING TRIALS MUST WAIT

Despite demands of Pittsburgh ministers for prompt trial of 167 defendants in the alleged liquor ring conspiracy, United States Attorney John D. Meyer today announced the cases would not be brought to trial until the regular court term, next October or November.

"I have given the proposal to request a special summer session of the Federal Court no studied consideration," said the Federal prosecutor, "but I see no necessity for such a move."

Meyer made the announcement to newspapermen while engaged in trying cases in the Allegheny County courts where he has been busy almost continuously since the federal grand jury handed down its presentment Saturday indicting legislators, police officers, politicians and others on charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws.

"Cases will be listed for trial at the next regular term in accordance with the criminal calendar which would bring them up probably in October or November," said Meyer.

"As to whether the cases will be taken up then will depend upon the calendar and the wishes of the judges, but I shall put them on in the regular way."

The federal attorney made no reference to action taken yesterday by Methodist Episcopal and United Presbyterian ministers urging that the liquor cases be brought to trial immediately as well as demanding of Mayor Kline that all city officers involved be suspended pending trial.

At 1 o'clock this afternoon 72 of those indicted had given bond of $5,000 each before a United States commissioner. Another, Charles Berger, is in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta serving a term on a liquor charge.

Peter J. McGann was found in bed at his home in Reed street with a broken rib sustained in an auto accident June 6.

Attorneys representing many of the defendants have notified the United States attorney's office by telephone that their clients will be in voluntarily and give bond.

Police Supt. P. P. Walsh was successful in obtaining bond late yes-

DR. J. DUNCAN SPAETH, SPEAKER

Pennsylvania College for Women has graduated its annual spring class with ceremonies on its campus under the direction of President Cora Helen Coolidge. Dr. J. Duncan Spaeth, professor of English, Princeton University, was the chief speaker. Dr. Edward C. McCown, pastor, Mt. Lebanon United Presbyterian Church, asked the invocation. Musical numbers made up the remainder of the commencement program. Here are photos of the graduates in their caps and gowns.

ALL PGH. COUPLES STILL IN DERBY

NEW YORK, June 12.—After 36 hours of dancing in Madison Square Garden here in the International Dance Derby of Milton D. Crandal's, 75 couples were still strolling along in dance position in their effort to win the $5,000 grand prize.

During the second night of the contest Baron George Suriani, of Naples, with his $100,000 title, was forced from the contest when his partner refused to continue after 24 hours. And today at 9 o'clock the first Pyle runner entered in the dance was eliminated when his partner played out. He was "Doc" Freeman, Oklahoma City.

None of the Pittsburgh couples have left the contest although Loretta Kelch, of 223 West Fourteenth street, Homestead, was forced from the dance. The contest looks as though it will be danced out between the Pittsburgh entrants, although many professional dancers seem to stand the grind well. John and Stella Cappello, of Swissvale, are moving along the polished floor with lots of determination and Eddie Leonard just tells Marianna Jacques, his partner, that they will be on the floor at the finish. Little Tommy Nolon and Anna King, Pittsburgh, tango champs, are receiving a great hand from the spectators when they step out for a sprint at tango.

The quarters for the contestants are private rooms of canvasses with red and white stripes and in these quarters the teams take their 15 minutes' rest after each hour. If you should take a peep into the quarters of Leonard and Jacques, you would see a modern training quarters and some familiar faces in Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Dolan, 223 South Winebiddle street; Mrs. J. P. Groff, 6119 Callery street, and Eddie's mother.

FESS SOUNDS KEYNOTE

his vision clear, and his action dauntless. His conception of public duty forestalls the employment of mere expediency. He spurns the arts of the demagogue, and strengthens the passion of public rectitude. He is more concerned in directing the public mind in proper channels than in following public clamor based upon propaganda. He yields not to threats, nor is he persuaded by cajolery. His evident desire to do justice to all stimulates public confidence. He shields no wrong, nor denies no right. His sense of fairness provokes support and disarms attack.

"After five years and seven months of leadership in our Nation, he leaves office by his own fiat, which appears to be final and is so interpreted by many of his friends in spite of the fact that his nomination and election would be a foregone conclusion did he not forbid.

"This hold upon the confidence of the American people of every name, class and creed, without regard to partisan feeling, makes Calvin Coolidge the greatest personal and political force in the world today."

Upholds Dry Law

Senator Fess studiously avoided mentioning prohibition by name, but he made it clear that the Republican party is a dry party. His allusion to prohibition was veiled, but pointed, in that section of his speech devoted to "law enforcement." After calling for more universal respect for the law, he said:

"No backward step can be tolerated upon whatever pretext which would permit a noisy minority to exploit the great mass of our population. All over the earth, led by our own example, there has burnt into national consciousness the conviction that this policy and program of human conservation must not be scuttled.

"It is not a question of tolerance or of liberty, but of life, both individual and national. The Republican party is ready to call the roll on this false doctrine masquerading under the mask of liberty. It is ready to sound the moral tocsin against the present campaign of noise-making minority whether in the interest of business profit or mere human indulgence. It stands for respect for law. It condemns the violation of law."

Rebukes Farm Bloc

Senator Fess made it emphatically clear that the party is willing to stand or fall on the record of the Coolidge administration, and in this connection he rebuked the farm rebels in the party by approving the sentiments expressed in Mr. Coolidge's veto of the McNary-Haugen bill. He echoed a number of the President's veto arguments, and at the same time highly praised the administration's agricultural record, which, he said, contained "the enactment of no less than 24 separate pieces of constructive and remedial legislation covering every phase of the agricultural problem."

But it was upon the prosperous condition of the country since the Republicans returned to power seven years ago that the Ohio senator placed most emphasis.

"Today," he said, "we are in the longest period of sustained business prosperity in our history."

Going into details, then, Senator Fess sketched the business depression that immediately followed the war, dwelt upon the enormous public debt and the burdensome high taxes, the disarrangement of the whole economic and business structure of the country, and asserted that the Republican party had rescued the nation from that slough. The public debt had been reduced eight and one-half billions of dollars since 1921, he said, at the same time that taxes were being reduced nearly $2,000,000,000 a year, and the country being made prosperous.

"This accomplishment," he asserted, "was not the result of accident, but rather of management."

Under it, he continued, the American standard of living has been raised to the highest level in the world's history and kept there. By way of comparison he referred to "the regrettable experience of Grover Cleveland in his tariff-for-revenue-only policy and the long line of soup houses."

Their Work Praised

Senator Fess mentioned no candidate by name — unless President Coolidge can be considered in that category. But he did pay indirect compliments to Herbert Hoover, Andrew W. Mellon, Charles E. Hughes and Charles G. Dawes.

He praised the work of the Department of Commerce in the development of radio and commercial aviation under Hoover; he spoke in glowing terms of the Treasury record; he told how American statesmanship had made itself felt in the rehabilitation and peace of Europe through the Dawes plan and the Locarno pacts.

Foreign relations came in for considerable, though unsensational comment. He avoided any reference to the world court, which the Harding-Coolidge administration sponsored and which the Republican leadership of the Senate defeated. He reaffirmed Republican opposition to America's entering the League of Nations. Praised the State Department's efforts to "outlaw war" by treaties, and defended staunchly the Coolidge policy of sending marines to the little banana republics of Central America.

He denied the marines were in Nicaragua and Hayti for any imperialistic purposes, and asserted they would be withdrawn when the need for their presence was no longer felt.

On the whole, he told the delegates, the party record has been one of outstanding success and accomplishment, and it is upon that record that the Republicans should seek a new lease of power.

ROME, June 12.—In a wireless message received here today, Gen. Umberto Nobile, marooned commander of the dirigible Italia, stated that his radio storage batteries were practically exhausted and that transmission of messages would have to be stopped for a few days until means were devised for recharging them.

In his message Nobile also made an urgent appeal for supplies. He asked for boots for his men, rifles and ammunition, medicines, sledges, cigarets, an oil stove and three pneumatic boats.

Nobile advised that he had so rationed his meager food supply that it would last for 50 days. He said that a single red-tinted tent had been erected on a large ice-floe to enable aviators of the relief expeditions to sight his crew from the air.

SUFFERING HUNGER PANGS

KINGS BAY, Spitzbergen, June 12.—(INS.)—Suffering the pangs of hunger, inadequately equipped to combat the inclement weather of the Arctic and separated into three groups, one of which contained two injured men, the crew of the dirigible Italia were today in a serious predicament on the ice-floes northeast of Spitzbergen.

Almost all of the crew of 17 and Gen. Umberto Nobile himself were suffering from frost-bite. One of the injured men suffered a broken leg when the gondola of the Italia crashed on the ice in attempting to land. It is feared that the Italia's surgeon may have to amputate the leg, but it seems utterly impossible that he will be able to do so with the facilities at his command.

Collapses

MAX LESLIE

Max Leslie, delegate, collapsed as he left his train at Kansas City and will spend part of his period at the Republican convention in his hotel room, recuperating. His daughter, Inez Leslie Murdoch, will vote his proxy. He has been in ill health for several years.

CLAMOR FOR BAND WAGON

an hour before the convention's assembly that "Coolidge is out of it" and "Hoover is the man" was on everybody's lips. On the floor some of the wavering delegations were caucusing as the convention opened, and voting to support Hoover.

Idaho, which had indicated its first vote to its favorite son, Senator Borah, was one of these. The delegates decided to show their support of the nominee by going to him at the start. Over in the New Jersey section, where there were some Lowden delegates, the delegation informally agreed to support Hoover solidly from the first ballot onward.

MAY BE BY ACCLAMATION

At this rate of Hoover progress, it may be possible to nominate him by acclamation.

The captains of the allies were not much in evidence. They had little to say, but it is probable the next few days will see some ruffled feelings softened under the ministrations of party doctors.

The floor was packed and the galleries jammed to suffocation when Chairman William M. Butler strode on the rostrum and banged his gavel sharply at 11 a. m. Above his head, and immediately behind him were two gigantic pictures — Abraham Lincoln and Calvin Coolidge. They were the only pictures in the vast hall.

CHEERS FOR MELLON

As Butler was presenting the temporary roll of the convention, a trickle of applause started far back in the hall. It grew in volume as it approached the platform, and in a twinkling most of the delegates were standing on their feet cheering and applauding.

Down the center aisle was walking the diminutive figure of Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon. He looked embarrassed at the interruption he had caused, for Butler was pounding savagely with his gavel, seeking to restore order.

The Pennsylvania section was in the first row, directly under Chairman Butler's nose. Mellon dropped unobtrusively into the first seat on the aisle and started reading a newspaper. Next to him was Gov. John H. Fisher, one of the original Hoover men, and next to Fisher was Senator-elect William S. Vare, who has consistently forced Mellon's hand in the indorsement of Hoover.

MELLON, BUTLER SPEAK

Two of the most powerful figures in this convention—Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, and William M. Butler, chairman of the National Committee, spoke the words that assured victory for Hoover.

Butler told his Massachusetts delegates that he would vote for Hoover.

"I have not desired to do anything that might preclude and foreclose the possibility of continuing President Coolidge in office," said Butler. "But I now will ask my alternate to vote in my place for Herbert Hoover, and I am satisfied that such a course will meet the approval of our beloved President. I am satisfied that it is satisfactory to the President for the good people of Massachusetts not to vote for him."

At the same time, Secretary Mellon was counseling the 79 Pennsylvanians in a similar vein across the street.

FAVORED COOLIDGE FIRST

Secretary Mellon said that when he made his statement in Philadelphia a few weeks ago to the effect that of all the candidates that had presented themselves, Hoover came nearest to the Coolidge pattern, he was still hopeful that President Coolidge might be prevailed upon to stand again.

"At the time of our conference in Philadelphia on May 12, it was still uncertain whether President Coolidge might be induced to accept a renomination," he said.

"Now, however, it has become clear that he will not do so. It, therefore, seems wise to look for that nominee who will best carry forward the policies of the present administration, which have won the whole-hearted approval of the American people.

"As I said in Philadelphia, Mr. Hoover seems, of all the candidates, to best measure up to the high standards that we have set. My suggestion to my colleagues in the delegation is that we vote for him on the first ballot."

NO DISSENTING VOTE

There was a record roll call in the Pennsylvania delegation on Mellon's suggestion and it resulted in 79 affirmative votes and not a single dissenter.

Important as were the 118 votes in themselves, the statements of Butler and Mellon were more important, for Mr. Butler said he was satisfied that the nomination of Hoover would be satisfactory to President Coolidge and that he was confident that Mr. Coolidge did not want even a complimentary vote from his own state of Massachusetts. Butler occupies a large place in Mr. Coolidge's confidence, and his statement was accepted, in fact, as just as authoritative as if it had just arrived from the White House direct.

The net effect of the Butler-Mellon pronouncements probably will be to drive all of the 150 votes, originally intended to be cast for Coolidge, into the Hoover column, and if that proves to be the case, then it appeared likely that James W. Good spoke conservatively when he said that the nomination of Hoover would be a fact before the first ballot was three-quarters over.

NO DIRECT WORD

Neither Mellon nor Butler would admit having received any direct word from the White House. Butler said he was merely stating "my opinion."

Mellon said that he based his opinion that President Coolidge would not run upon a conversation which he had with Coolidge shortly before he left Washington.

"I have never really felt that Mr. Coolidge would accept renomination," said Mellon later. "In fact, I've thought he wouldn't for a long time."

The Hoover managers immediately seized upon the Butler and Mellon statements and broadcast them through the city, just as the delegates began to wend their way to the convention hall to hear Senator Simeon D. Fess' keynote speech.

"It's all over," said the Hoover managers, and even the desperate, disappointed leaders of the anti-Hoover coalition were forced to agree with them—unless the day of miracles is not past.

Leslie in Collapse; Rallies

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 12.—Senator M. G. Leslie, Pittsburgh, who collapsed upon arrival here yesterday, is reported improved this morning, by Dr. Robert Greer, Butler, who is attending him.

"He has reacted well to rest and treatment, but must have absolute rest," he said.

Senator Leslie is at the Baltimore Hotel.

STATE VOTES FOR HOOVER

the state's votes will go to Hoover on the first ballot.

"My suggestion to my colleagues in this delegation is that they vote for Herbert Hoover on the first ballot," he said.

His declaration, greeted by cheers on the part of the Pennsylvania delegates, caused gloom to descend on the Lowden headquarters across the hall from the caucus room and the rooms of other aspirants.

The moment the words were spoken the nomination of Hoover on an early ballot seemed to be assured.

FOR COOLIDGE POLICIES

Secretary Mellon, at the caucus, made it plain that he is throwing his support to Hoover because he believes the latter will carry on the policies of the Coolidge administration.

"It has become clear," he said, "that President Coolidge will not accept the nomination."

In view of last night's developments, Mellon's statement did not come as a surprise. Unless he had declared for Hoover he would have faced a fight in the delegation led by the Vare organization delegates, aided by others throughout the state.

WANT VARE SEATED

An effort to have the Republican Party, in its platform, pledge itself to the seating in the Senate of William S. Vare, of Philadelphia, was started at the caucus of the Pennsylvania delegation today on motion of Congressman W. W. Griest, of Lancaster.

Griest presented a resolution urging the continuance of the system of permitting each state to elect its own United States senators. This was approved unanimously without a roll call.

The insertion in the platform of a definite plank pledging upward revision of the tariff rates also was demanded by unanimous vote, this drive being led by Joseph R. Grundy, president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association.

MELLON ACES HELD BACK

Unless there were secret deals that still are mysteries to the scores of reporters guarding every room on the fourth and fifth floors of the Muehlebach Hotel last night, while drum and fife corps, bagpipe aggregations and brass bands swung through the streets, and while batteries of artillery roared salutes from the outskirts of the city, Secretary Mellon had a pair of aces back to back which he failed to play.

Two men took the lead away from him. One was Gov. John S. Fisher who, through his friendship with Hubert Work, Secretary of the Interior and leader of the Hoover campaign, has been waging a quiet campaign in smoke-filled conference rooms to win the Pennsylvania delegation to Hoover.

The other was United States Senator William S. Vare of Philadelphia who, within a few hours of his arrival here, climbed on the Hoover band wagon with a figurative blare of trumpets.

There are indications, too, that Secretary Mellon came here determined to support Hoover, but would not make a statement because he felt it more proper to have the action come from the delegation caucus.

CARRANZA LANDS IN SOUTH

MOORESVILLE, N. C., June 12. — (AP.) — Capt. Emilio Carranza was forced by fog to abandon his projected non-stop flight from Mexico City to Washington at 3:30 a. m. eastern time today. He came down near a Commerce Department beacon light in forced landing and was unhurt.

Immediately after landing on the field here, Capt. Carranza dispatched a telegram to the Mexican ambassador at Washington asking instructions. He then retired at a hotel here with orders that he was not to be called until 7 a. m.

The landing was made here when the aviator ran into a dense fog that covered the air mail route he was following and he was unable to see the beacon lights. The aviator seemed tired from his long flight from Mexico City.

The plane, according to those at the airport here, was functioning perfectly and the landing was made with little difficulty.

Convention Day by Day

O. O. M'INTYRE

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 12.—In the Muehlebach lobby today two slightly pie-eyed gentlemen were discussing the political outlook.

Said one gravely: "Whoever it is, is bound to be nominated."

Replied the other, just at gravely: "You can search me."

And that is symbolic of the cock-eyed pre-convention atmosphere. Nobody knows anything. I am glad to be a reportorial "wall flower" sitting on the side lines and tittering behind my fan.

My ears are not cupped for the windy blurbs of campaign managers. Those are for the trained political scribes.

I'm just foolin' around, seeing life in Kansas City, following parades, getting free rides in elevators and sending post cards back home.

This morning I went out to see my sister Katie on Wayne avenue, and Aunt Betty Snarr had driven the car over from Plattsburg and we all rocked on the pleasantest front porch and recalled the time I caught my head in a well. But that isn't what makes me this way.

Snooping aroun' one learns of many new wrinkles. Last evening I found a Peke dog that plays a toy piano and a firm that paints the faded grass on your lawn a brilliant green. I like that idea. I'm going to take it back to New York and try to become the head man of a Brighter Lawn Movement.

The average New York lawn consists of a jerk of grass and a sign, "No Trespassing," so the lawn painter would have no more to do than an Easter lily salesman. Where was I?

Oh, yes, I know. About the convention. Well, I saw young Teddy Roosevelt, who has the molar accomplishments of his illustrious sire, this morning. He was flashing his teeth and pounding a table to explain to a frightened cub reporter he was not a candidate for anything. The way he glared at me as I passed, you might think I had started the rumor. I didn't even know he was in town.

And not far away from Mr. Roosevelt was Roy Howard, wearing a suit that would rock the spectrum. He wasn't carrying the saxophone that went with it. Howard owns oodles of newspapers. We used to work together out in Cincinnati, steal each other's cigarets and cut our own hair. But he went up in the world, like a Horatio Alger, Jr., hero and amounted to something.

New York drags through the early morning and begins to bustle with activity about 10 o'clock. So the Easterner is always impressed with the early morning activity out here. At 5 a. m. there is the turbulent roar of traffic and the sidewalk shuffle.

When I arose at 8 o'clock I felt positively effeminate. I rang for the water and he brought me a luncheon menu and—you folks don't want to hear about that silly convention anyway—I must tell you about that waiter. He is the spit image of Lew Fields in "Old Dutch" and explodes like a bottle of pop conversationally. For years he graced such establishments as Martin's, Bustanoby's and Shanley's in New York.

But 10 years ago he came to Kansas City and he never wants to return to the East. He is devoted to golf and is the only waiter I ever came across who plays this game. That interests me more than what the Texas delegation is going to do. His dialect is delicious. Will Rogers stuck his head in the door for a moment.

"That was Will Rogers," I told him.

A good joke-cracker, that fellow," he said.

And then Charlie Young came in and told me about the Scotchman who was eating a pig's knuckle and had eaten down to his own elbow before he stopped himself. So that gives you a slight idea of how much fun you can have at a political convention.

This, of course, is the big day, and everybody is on the qui vive, if you know what I mean. I'm sure I don't.

If ever a city has spread itself, this one has. Everybody has his company manners. All the big homes are keeping open house. The downtown corners are almost impassable, but it is a good humored crowd, and there seems to be little drinking.

There are many cowpunchers here from nearby Oklahoma, and those who expected to see them riding hell-for-leather through the streets, shooting from both hips, are surprised to find them hunched up on a stool at a soda fountain, enjoying a raspberry split.

So far I have heard only one man raising the old Harry. He brought along a bottle, "just off the boat"—probably scraped off the sides—and at intervals during the night he gave vent to a prolonged "whoop-ee-ee." Early this morning he was poured onto a train and sent back East, where he will complain of the uncouth ways of the wild and wooly West.

In the East he probably would be peeking out behind the bars yelling, "Hey, Jack, gotta a match."

DANCERS PASS 230TH HOUR

CHICAGO, June 12.—Four fast-wilting couples were still dragging swollen feet over the Coliseum floor at the end of the 230th hour of the national endurance dance contest this morning. The world's record was shattered many hours ago.

Although each of the four surviving couples has their bleary eyes riveted on the grand prize of $3,500, all are assured of a major slice of the total prize money. This was made certain when Promoter Harry Caplan, last night, created a fourth purse of $500. The stunt has proved a promotional gold mine.

Second and third money are $1,000 and $750 respectively.

MIFFLIN GIRL VANISHES

Mifflin township police are searching for Irene Birger, 14, daughter of Anthony Birger, who disappeared from her home in Buttermilk Hollow after telling her parents that she was going to visit the airport at Bettis Field. The girl has blue eyes, brown hair, and was wearing a white dress with polka dots, white shoes and white stockings.

SCAFFOLD FALLS, TWO WORKERS CLING TO ROOF

When the scaffold on which they were working on a new building in Vondera plan, Mifflin township, gave way yesterday, Earl Gibson, 35, of 525 Amity street, Homestead, and James Conway, 55, 705 Wylie avenue, gripped the roof and held on for 10 minutes before they dropped to the ground. Both are in the Homestead hospital suffering from injuries sustained in the drop.

SUN-TELE PARK TICKETS FREE, 'NO STRINGS'

Hello! You Sun-Tele boys and girls!

Are you making your plans to attend the big Jubilee to be held for you at the new National Amusement Park, above Aspinwall, on Tuesday, July 3?

Yesterday you were told how every boy and girl in every family where The Sun-Tele is read would be given a long coupon ticket good for rides on the merry-go-round, the airplanes and the Ferris wheel, as well as for admission to the other novelty attractions in the park. Everything will be free and will be provided by the Sun-Tele.

Today the little folk are reminded that there will be no strings to the invitation and every boy and girl who desires to go will get one of the long tickets with its 14 coupons—enough for a whole day's fun and frolic.

Watch The Sun-Tele for details as to how the tickets may be had for the asking.

Provision being made for one of the largest assemblages of children ever held in Pittsburgh, and every safe-guard will be provided for their care and safety. The smaller children, of course, will be accompanied by their mothers, aunts, big sisters or other guardians.

There will be souvenirs and refreshments. A French vanilla bar made by the Reinhold Ice and Ice Cream Company of Oakmont will be given to each visitor holding a coupon ticket. It is a toothsome dainty of ice cream put up in a new style, so that it may be eaten without a spoon.

Watch tomorrow's Sun-Tele for more about the big Sun-Tele Jubilee on Tuesday, July 3.

Simple Rules for a Balanced Diet

by Mary Blake

Perhaps you have read so much about calories and carbohydrates that you think this business of planning well-balanced meals a very difficult one. It really isn't at all. Surely you can remember these six simple rules, and if you follow them, you may be sure that your family has a well-rounded, health-giving diet.

1. A quart of milk for every member of the family each day. 2. Two vegetables besides potatoes—one of these to be served raw (as in a salad). 3. Two servings of fruit. 4. One serving of meat or meat substitute (fish, eggs, cheese). 5. Generous use of eggs (served as egg or in custard or other egg dishes). 6. An acceptable cereal (if white bread is served, include a cereal like oatmeal). Frequently serve whole wheat bread, graham bread, and similar breads (as well as white).

Of all these foods, milk is the most important. It is our best source of calcium, the mineral so necessary for building strong, straight bones and good hard teeth. It is a good source of vitamins, those mysterious substances so necessary for health and for growth. It is also a good source of tissue-building material (necessary for growth and to replace worn tissues).

Milk on Whose Purity and Richness You Can Depend

I know of no milk supply so completely dependable, so uniform in quality, in purity, in cream content, as Carnation Milk. It is simply the best of whole milk, produced from selected herds under strictest sanitary conditions, evaporated to double creaminess and sterilized that you may have an entirely dependable and economical milk supply, in its most convenient form.

Another thing that makes Carnation Milk so desirable, particularly for cooking, is the fact that it is "homogenized"—that is, the cream globules are broken up into minute particles and distributed uniformly throughout the milk, so that every drop is doubly rich in cream. This extra-fineness of the cream particles gives an extra-fine, velvety-smooth texture to everything in which Carnation Milk is used.

There are so many important advantages about Carnation, that I am sure you will be interested in having the Carnation Cook Book. It is free. Won't you send for it? Address Carnation Milk Products Co., 100 Carnation Bldg., Oconomowoc, Wis.

Carnation Cream of Mushroom Soup

1 can of mushrooms (8 oz.). (Get can containing stems and broken pieces), 2 tbsp. butter, 3 tbsp. flour, ⅛ tsp. pepper, 1 tsp. salt, 2 cups Carnation Milk, paprika. Drain and measure liquor from mushrooms and add enough water to make 2 cups of liquid. Add chopped mushrooms and simmer 15 minutes. Make white sauce of the butter, flour, seasonings and Carnation. Add mushrooms with their liquid and serve while hot. Serves 6.

Makes the Creamiest Soups

Carnation Milk is doubly rich in cream. It makes the creamiest of soups and sauces, the smoothest ice cream and candy, the richest puddings, the finest-textured cakes. Try it.

The DRAPERY SECTION IN NEW QUARTERS

We have been obliged to find larger quarters for our Curtain and Drapery Department. It has been moved to the rear of the new North Building, on the same floor, where it has nearly half again as much space. It has been entirely re-fixtured and presents the last word in modern facilities and equipment. One distinct advantage is the increased daylight, which will be appreciated in the selection and matching of colors. Attractive rooms for Lamp Shade Classes, Pillows and other subdivisions are provided.

The enlarged department has come as the direct result of the rapid growth of its business, which has been generally recognized, and is another step in the store's expansion program. With its increased facilities, this department is one of the outstanding Drapery Sections of the country.

DR. W. M. IRVINE, MERCERSBURG HEADMASTER, DIES

NERVOUS BREAK CLAIMS NOTED EDUCATOR

MERCERSBURG, Pa., June 12.—Stricken last week while leading the step-song at the annual commencement exercises of Mercersburg Academy, Dr. William Mann Irvine, 63, for 35 years headmaster of the academy, died last night.

His collapse was attributed to a complete nervous breakdown.

William Mann Irvine was born October 13, 1865, at Bedford, Pa., a son of Henry R. and Emma E. Mann Irvine. He was graduated from Phillips Academy, Exeter, N. H., in 1884, from Princeton in 1888 and the Reformed Church Seminary, Lancaster, in 1892. He was married to Camille Hart, of Winchester, Va., in 1894. After serving as professor of social science at Franklin and Marshall College in 1892 and 1893 he became headmaster at Mercersburg Academy in 1893. He was president of the Headmasters' Associatiin 1921, of the Association of Colleges and Schools of Middle States and Maryland in 1922; Headmasters' Club of Philadelphia in 1923, and a member of the Board of Fish Commissioners of Pennsylvania since 1924. FORMING OF ELLPORT BOROUGH PROTESTED

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., June 12.—Sixty residents of "The Bend," in Wayne township, have protested to court the formation of the borough of Ellport as inexpedient.

MELLON SECRET BALKS ROGERS

By WILL ROGERS.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 12.—Well, I just got tired milling around the hotel lobbies all this time and I just made up my mind to go right where the convention was being held. So when Mr. Mellon come I just headed for his quarters. He had always been mighty nice to me and laughed at my little jokes at all the dinners. So he had a Senator who was acting as a door man let me right in.

To make sure that I would get in I took my tax receipt with me to show him that I did all I could to make his department make a good showing, for I knew how hard he is trying to make us forget Alexander Hamilton.

"How are you, Mr. Mellon? The whole town has been waiting for you."

"Hello, Will. I am glad to see you. How is your personal campaign getting on?"

"I am doing about as well as all the other candidates here, with the exception of the one that will be nominated. Did you bring the letter from Coolidge?"

"Yes, I have it right here."

"Well, let's open it and see what it says."

"No, I can't let you see it, Will. It's confidential and it's not to be shown till the proper time on the convention floor."

"Can you give me any kind of hint that Coolidge will or will not run?"

"No, none, only I never heard him say anything about moving."

"Well, who are your Pennsylvania delegation for?"

"Well, I haven't told them yet."

"If Hoover will keep you in your present job will you be for him?"

"Certainly, but he hasn't said that he would."

"Would you like to be President yourself?"

"No, I care not who is a country's president, just so I can handle its money."

"Who is Vare for?"

"Why, ain't he from Pennsylvania?"

"Not that I ever heard of. He might be from Philadelphia, but not from Pennsylvania."

"How much money did you save for the country during your term?"

"All that Congress appropriated."

"Do you think it did any good to save it?"

"Not a bit. We would have been better off if I hadn't saved it."

"How long will the convention last?"

"Till I show 'em this letter."

"Can Smith beat Hoover?"

"He can, but he won't."

"Why?"

"Because he won't get a chance."

WITNESS IN RUM PROBE IS RAIDED

VENGEANCE OF LIQUOR RING IS SEEN

Pittsburgh's rum ring began its campaign of vengeance today, when bootleggers tipped off North Side police that a witness who gave testimony before the federal grand jury in its probe of alleged violations of the liquor laws, was marketing contraband booze.

Anthony Puniak, 2823 Preble avenue, said to have been a star witness before the grand jury which indicted 167 persons Saturday, today was visited by police raiders who report finding 100 barrels of mash, several hundred gallons of moonshine, and "aging" plant and other equipment.

Puniak, said to have testified before the grand jury on six days, had been branded a "squawker" by bootleggers of the Woods Run district.

Seizing a paring knife, Mrs. Theresa Puniak, 23, attacked police, the latter reported. The woman assailed Plainclothesman Jacob Isler and when his fellow-officer, Earl McDonald, went to his aid she struck at him with the knife, it was alleged. She was lodged in Woods Run Police Station on a charge of disorderly conduct.

7TH STREET POLL FAVORS HOOVER

The man in the street gave Hoover a slight margin of favor over Smith in a straw vote taken Saturday afternoon in Seventh street, between Liberty avenue and Duquesne way.

Of the 245 persons questioned as to Hoover and Smith, 123 favored Hoover, 117 were for Smith. Three insisted they would vote for Coolidge, one said Dawes would be nominated and get his vote, and another held out for Lowden.

The present count in the Sun-Telegraph's straw vote to date stands as follows:

	Hoover.	Smith.
Oliver Building	367	167
Westinghouse Plant	302	300
Ohio street	131	202
Imperial	55	52
City-County Building	75	50
Seventh street	123	117
Total	1,053	888
Mail vote	361	1,807
Grand total	1,414	2,695

With the exception of the mail vote, listed above, all of the straw votes were obtained by personal canvass of Sun-Telegraph representatives, and the total is presented as being a true indication of general sentiment. All classes of people are approached, the laborer, the banker, the family man and the housewife.

In Seventh street it was ascertained that four years ago 72 persons voted for Coolidge and 13 for Davis. The total votes recorded for Coolidge in the last presidential election gathered in the straw vote canvass shows 1,092 for Coolidge and 246 for Davis.

The mail vote shows 1208 votes cast for Coolidge and 228 for Davis. This gives a grand total of 2,300 for Coolidge and 474 for Davis four years ago.

Will Passes on Tips Heard at Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, June 12.—Here are the tips that were going the rounds yesterday: Hoover on the first ballot; Coolidge on the second ballot; Dawes on the third; Lowden on the fourth and Curtis on the fifth ballot. Then, in case there is a deadlock, why, it will go into a hat and all the senators draw for it.

Will Rogers

Just talked with Borah, and he says he don't care who gets it as long as he can disagree with him.

Kansas City is a doing herself proud. They did have some pickpockets here when it started, but they all starved out.

I am still for Mrs. Coolidge on a vindication platform.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

WATCHES THIEF TAKE JEWELS

Afraid to make an outcry, Mrs. Catherine Cunningham, wife of G. R. Cunningham, president of the Hazelwood Lumber Company, watched a robber collect $3,000 worth of jewelry from the dresser in her home, 1932 Beechwood boulevard, early yesterday. Mrs. Cunningham was awakened by the robber and she also saw him take $68 from the pockets of her husband's trousers.

THOUSANDS SEE HEARST FILM

Thousands of Pittsburghers yesterday got their first glimpse of a newspaper in action when "The Making of a Newspaper," Hearst news film, made its debut as a special attraction at the Grand Theater.

Allied with the best program shown at the Grand in months, the film presented the more interesting phases of news getting and news producing.

It will continue on the program at the Grand during the remainder of the week.

"Hangman's Noose," a film from the famous novel by Donn Byrne, Irish author, was the feature of the program. Along with the regular schedule, there was "Chicken Feed," newest of "Our Gang Comedies" and Chita and Her Flaming Youths, as the stage attraction.

Chita, noted ballet and acrobatic dancer, was assisted by her company of five comedy dancers and singers. It is an excellent stage presentation, and conforms to the new policy of the Grand in giving stage shows in addition to the special films and feature picture.

"The Making of a Newspaper" was produced, after several years work, by International News Reel.

WEATHER HALTS MILK FUND WORK

While June weather so far has not been conductive to out of door benefits such as are usually given for The Sun-Tele Milk and Ice Fund, warm days are on the way and will bring with them a host of affairs to increase the fund. But because the weather is not warm, it does not follow that the needs of the babies are any fewer. Babies must be fed and kept well be the weather what it may. The Pittsburgh Milk and Ice Association, of which the chief support is The Sun-Tele Fund, is operating at present on borrowed money, and on borrowed money is looking after approximately 300 babies, whose parents are too poor to do for them what the great-hearted mother, the Association, is performing. Every baby is being tenderly watched, weighed and charted, and each day it is given its quota of certified milk. Medicine, too, is furnished in cases where it is found necessary.

The semi-weekly clinics to which the mothers are required to bring their little ones are interesting demonstrations of the care and thoroughness with which the association works in and from its new headquarters in the Lyceum Building.

The fund at present totals only $39.84.

A Novel About a
GOOD WOMAN
by Michael

THE MICHAEL ARLEN who made Iris March of "The Green Hat" so vivid and fascinating a bad woman, who let you into the secrets of Mayfair in "These Charming People," now tells the story of who is his idea of a good woman. She is charming, irresistible, but she is a Michael Arlen character.

Michael Arlen once destroyed a completed novel because he did not consider it a distinct advance over his best previous work. He finished this story in a burst of enthusiasm. And we begin it in July Cosmopolitan with enthusiasm as great—if not greater—than his.

The Private Love Story of Two Public Lovers

RUPERT HUGHES, in a story called "Shop!" tells of the dilemma of a famous movie hero and his beautiful co-star who fell in love with each other—and found ghosts of their public love-making at every turn in their private romance.

John KNITTEL

a Swiss, close friend of your friend, Robert Hichens. Mr. Knittel published this year "Into the Abyss," one of the remarkable novels of our generation.

Irvin S. Cobb, in "Injun Duel," pictures a three-man war over a Delilah of the Tennessee border, reviving a savage custom of the Choctaw Indians.

Ring W. Lardner, in "Wedding Day," turns the romance of a Broadway comedian and a dancer inside out and shows you all the seams.

George Ade proves, in "On His Uppers," that the best start in life for a young man with too much money may be to lose it all at the race-track.

Peter B. Kyne piles thrill on thrill in "Blacklisted"—a story of wooden ships and iron men and iron ships and wooden men.

A Fair Maid Meets Love In Strange Surroundings

Emily Attends a Dinner At Francis Haiden's And Again Meets Coles

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR

Emily Day and Kitten are daughters of a worker in the Rossiter factory. Both are prevented by poverty from mingling with the socially elect of the little town. Emily has made an ideal of Kent Rossiter. Marty Nolan, whose father keeps a "speakeasy," is devoted to her. Mrs. Frances Haiden, a wealthy interior decorator, takes an interest in her and tells her the only aristocracy is that of work. She gets a job with Mrs. Haiden. Her father dies and Rossiter offers help which her mother declines. Avis Rossiter's father threatens to disinherit her unless she changes her ways. Avis proposes to Marty and is refused. Kitten meets a wealthy boy and wants a new dress. Emily decides it is better to stay in her own class, so turns down Kingdon Coles.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

SHE turned abruptly to the telephone and gave the number of the newspaper where Kingdon Coles was employed. She intended to tell him she wasn't so busy after all and that she'd enjoy a drive.

But he had left for the day.

Stella came through the hedge early in the evening. For the first time Emily noticed she no longer was plump. And she left off rouging her cheeks and her eyes were very big in a white face.

"Want to go for a walk, dear? I'm just finishing the dishes—with you in a second—"

Stella nodded and went to the street to wait. The girls linked arms when they started out and it was then Emily saw her friend's hand's clenched.

"Is it Skeets again, Stell? If only you'd forget!"

"Can't forget some things, Em. He—he hasn't seen me for nearly two weeks. Wouldn't answer when I telephoned. Rotten—oh, boys of his class—"

"Why do you think of class, dear? Not important, really." Emily tried to quote Frances Haiden, but it fell flat before Stella's fierce scorn.

"Who says it's not important? You think he'd treat girls of his own crowd this way? He's over calling on Bess Tourney; I went around there and saw him. I hate 'em all, Em," she burst out. "Your father was right. Act as if we were dirt under their feet. All alike—oh—"

Emily said, "I don't know." She thought of Avis Rossiter hysterically throwing herself at Marty Nolan; of Stella sneaking by the Tourney home to spy on Skeets.

CHAPTER XIX.

FRANCES HAIDEN invited Emily for dinner an evening or two later.

She felt the girl must be rescued from a warped viewpoint and went about it in the direct fashion which was a part of all she did.

She had no intention of allowing anything serious to develop between her small friend and Kingdon Coles. But she was convinced that life could not be shut out.

"Go and meet experience," she once told Emily. "Grapple with it. That's what makes a woman strong and brave."

And to herself she added, "Throw this exquisite child to that vulgarian with the hard jaw and the atavistic manner—tragedy! She must have a chance to know other things; find out what's true. I can show her a little."

She hummed to herself:

"For to admire and for to know,
For to be old this world so wide—"

And invited Emily for dinner. "Wear the yellow frock, dear; the one with the frills."

"It's going to be a party, Frances?"

"I don't think so." Rather glib this was; in her present state of high resolution Emily would have refused a party. "It's a pretty frock and you never put it on."

Which was true enough. The dress was a copy of the one she had worn that night when Kent followed her into the garden; the night when they had stood above the river watching ships pass and he kissed her goodbye.

She loved the pale gold flounces, but kept them hung away. She felt almost that she must save the dress. That night could not return; never again would Kent sit beside her, smiling, saying with the small break in his voice that she was sweet.

Yet she dreamed of this; having the gown almost made it seem not altogether a dream.

She put it on tonight and called a taxi. An extravagance she considered that, but told herself she was entitled to something. As they spun through the River road and on down Lowland drive toward Great View she saw with a twinge of longing that this was another such night as the luminous one she remembered. The moon hung low on the river and rose hedges were fragrant all along the way.

Frances called to her from the garden to go in; she would follow shortly, she said. As Emily stepped into the drawing room, not yet lighted, a tall figure came out of the shadows, took both her hands, bending over them.

A mysterious something about this as of a thing only partly remembered; she caught her breath. But it vanished when the man spoke.

"Golden girl! How beautiful you are, Emily. Coming to me in the twilight—"

A shade too perfect. Kent could not have done that. She laughed and pulled on a lamp.

Still she was warmly conscious of his eyes throughout dinner. There were only the three of them under lighted candles and Frances managed to become a background.

Emily found herself being courted like a princess; openly adored. It thrilled her, rather; sent through her the pleasing glow of feeling that she was desired.

Afterward they sat on the terrace and watched the broad, bright roadway which led from the near shore straight across the river to the moon. Frances a bit apart, thoughtful and silent; Emily like a mist become human in her pale chiffon with her pale fluff of hair; Coles very romantic, all the sophistication rubbed out by the dim sheen, boyish and somehow sweet.

To Be Continued Tomorrow.

DID WONDERS FOR CRAFTON LADY

Ten Herbs Made Great Change, She Says; Benefited Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

"Ten Herbs has really done wonders for me," was the statement of Mrs. Effie H. Miller, 247 Densmore Avenue, Crafton, Pa., (near Pittsburgh), to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily demonstrating this popular natural medicine to crowds of men and women.

"For the past four years I suffered with stomach, liver and bowel trouble," Mrs. Miller continued. "My system finally became in such a weakened, run-down condition that I was almost a nervous wreck. I was so weak I could hardly walk through the house. Often after eating, indigestion and biliousness would be so bad I could hardly breathe; my breath would be so short, and I would have to sit down until the spell passed off. At these times gas from my stomach would work up around my heart, causing it to palpitate. My system seemed to be filled with poison, as during the day I would become so drowsy I could hardly keep awake. Then when night came I would be so nervous I could not sleep.

"Reading a number of statements of local persons in the papers, praising Ten Herbs, induced me to try your medicine. I have taken several bottles and can honestly say that I am a changed woman. I have a better appetite, and can eat almost anything without fear of gas, bloating, or heart palpitation. My bowels are regular and my liver is working fine. The drowsy spells have left me, and I feel stronger and better in every respect. My nerves have become quiet, and now I sleep the whole night through. I gladly endorse Ten Herbs to the public, so that persons who suffer as I have may give your medicine a trial and get the same good results that I did."

The Ten Herbs Man is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine.

Audience in Pitt Finds Great Deal to Appreciate In "Saturday's Children"

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

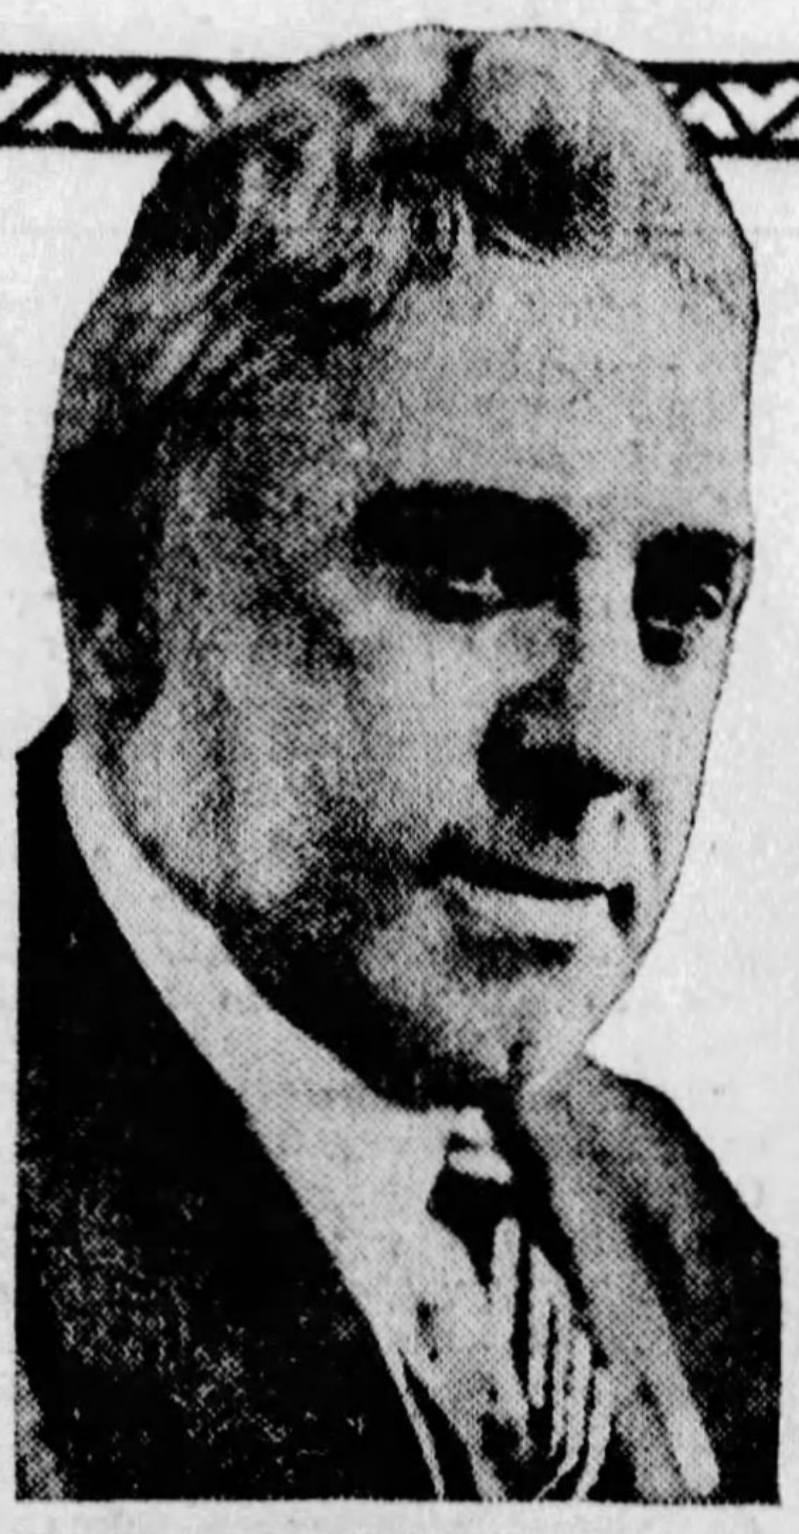
"SATURDAY'S CHILDREN," Maxwell Anderson's comedy of the problem of a young couple attempting to make the course of true love run true when there are such impediments as an income of $40 a week to meet an expense account of $45 weekly, and the friction of "in-laws," gave the George Sharp Players good opportunities in the Pitt last night. They took advantage of the chances to score, too, and the result was an evening of fun for a large audience, the occasion being a benefit for the Queen Esther Home for Orphans, under the auspices of the Protectors' Assembly of the Dames of Malta.

Anne Forrest made especially appealing the part of Bobby, a sweet, natural girl who permitted her sister to induce her to trick Rims O'Neil into proposing marriage to her. Ralph Morgan was Rims, imparting to the character commendable naturalness, a wavering balance between weakness and strength. Mabel Kroman was the scheming sister, Mrs. Sands, and her portrayal of the well-intentioned trouble maker was one of the high spots of the performance. Gus Forbes gave finish to his characterization of a father of the girls, making the man wise and sympathetic. John W. Moore marked his return to the company by playing Willie Sands, an under-the-thumb husband. Alice Ann Baker was the retiring mother and Mrs. Edward McHugh made flinty her picture of a rooming house keeper. Matthew Smith, Jr., played a chauffeur.

The presentation compared most favorably with the production offered in the same theater by a touring company several months ago. To be able to make that comparison speaks well for the local effort since it was very well done here originally.

PLAYERS APPEARING :-: IN FLESH AND SHADOW :-: IN THEATERS

Norma Shearer appears in the stellar role in "The Actress," photoplay feature of the Penn bill.



Joseph Thayer is a member of the Nixon Players, whose vehicle this week is "Little Old New York."

Evelyn Brent is the leading feminine player in "The Drag Net," being shown on Stanley screen.

Reginald Denny is starred in "That's My Daddy," the feature picture at the Aldine.

Lois Moran has a comedy role in "Don't Marry," shown in the Davis as the chief film attraction.

Gus Forbes is familiar in the Pitt, where the George Sharp Players offer "Saturday's Children."

HALL AT HEAD IN ALDINE

Julian Hall, bandmaster, dancer and saxaphone player, displays his versatility on the Aldine stage. First he appears with Kathleen Dexter in a comedy skit, "What's S'Matter," and later in an act with his Broadway Bats, a band organization of 12 capable musicians. Miss Dexter has a mop of red hair and a "loud-popping" line of chatter. Jimmy Gildea and a comedian named Ignatz and six or seven other fellows, offer some vocal harmony, acrobatic dance steps and flip flops. They're good. Fay and Milliken sing and chatter in an amusing manner. The Three Westergards, strong men, complete the stage show. The photoplay is "That's My Daddy," a Reginald Denny comedy.

COMEDY WINS IN NIXON

"Little Old New York," delightful comedy by Rida Johnson Young, is a play especially adapted to stock company presentation and the Nixon players made the most of it last night in their initial performance of the bill this week. The action deals with life on Manhattan isle when Astor was a real estate investor, Cornelius Vanderbilt was running a ferry and Washington Irving was drinking liquor and writing "Salmagundi." These notables as prominent characters in the play give it a sort of anchorage which enables the spectator to link up the historic past with the present and to take to his heart the little Irish lass, its heroine, who comes to America disguised as a boy and wins the heart of the hero unconsciously and in surprising fashion.

Katherine Wilson, as the lass in disguise who wears a boy's clothes unwillingly and who finally reveals her secret to her own sacrifice and discomfiture, has a role which she plays with winsomeness and charm. Harry Bannister, as Larry Delevan, reckless spendthrift with a generous heart, gives lustiness and decision to the part. Fred Sullivan in the character part of Reilly has the same merit of decision in his work. Howard Freeman gave the part of the first John Jacob Aster an intelligent rendition. Other members of the company have good opportunities in the large cast this week and the patrons of the Nixon players see their favorites at their best.

REVUE TOP ACT IN DAVIS

An elaborate musical and dancing revue with a number of novel characteristics, "Mixed Pickles," was the high spot in the Davis program of Keith-Albee vaudeville yesterday, proving to be an act of merit that was well liked. The acrobatic dancing of Paul Jung and Bob Mazuz was an outstanding feature ofthe several scenes, which closed a noisy snare drum and bugle selection by the entire company of 13 players The black-face comedy of George LeMaire and Rex Van had a freshness and vigor that won laughs. Nat Burns gave a real demonstration of how to dance. Mary Cowerd, blind, and Larry Braddam sang pleasingly. Wheeler and Wheeler performed on roller skates and the Four Girton Girls mixed comedy, thrills and bicycles. On the screen Lois Moran and Neil Hamilton made fun in the feature, "Don't Marry." News pictures and other films completed a satisfying bill.

BAND FEATURE IN HARRIS

The vaudeville bill, shown in the Harris yesterday, was patterned after the stage presentations in some of Pittsburgh's large motion picture houses—that is, a stage band furishes the musical background for the various song, dance and comedy specialities. Ralph Harrison's orchestra is one of the features. Harrison is a Pittsburgh boy. Willie Smith serves as master of ceremonies. The laughs of the offering are largely caused by a pair of comedians, who toss hats at the audience. Among the entertainers are Bill Moran, Donna Monroze, Al Wiser, Jack Hudson, Maud Crandall ad six or so others, including "two dancing bellhops" and the Chocolate Dandies. The photoplay is "Nameless Men," a story of the underworld. The cast includes Claire Winsdor and Antonia Morne. A film comedy, cartoon comedy and news pictures also are on the bill.

OLYMPIC PICTURE IS COMEDY OF WAR

"Ham and Eggs at the Front," featuring Tom Wilson and Heinie Conklin, is the Olympic photoplay feature. The story concerns Negro troops that answered Uncle Sam's call during the World War. Myrna Loy is in the cast. The picture is offered with Vitaphone accompaniment. In addition, there are two other Vitaphone presentations.

Popular local messenger ends foot tortures

"Coolene is great for burning, aching feet," says Popular Local Messenger.

ROBERT PARISE is a messenger right here in Pittsburgh. If there's any job that's hard on the feet, it's his. Recently his feet started to ache, burn and grow calloused. It worried him until he tried Coolene—and now his feet feel as young and spry as they did years ago. As he himself says:

"I have been walking the streets of our city as a messenger for quite a while, and only lately my feet went back on me. They began to burn and ache, and every step caused pain to shoot through my legs. I thought I'd have to give up my job. A friend suggested that I try Coolene. I did, and what a wonderful relief it was! Coolene softened up my hard callouses and took away all pain at once. It made my feet feel like new. Coolene sure is great for burning, aching feet."

Coolene soothes and heals sore, aching feet—instantly! It contains rare penetrating oils—and two world-old, soothing unguents—frankincense and myrrh, used by the ancients for centuries.

Get Coolene today. This wonderful healing cream takes all the burning and soreness out of corns, callouses, bunions and blisters. Coolene is ivory-white, greaseless, stainless. Easy to use. Vanishes instantly. Relief guaranteed from burning, aching, tired feet—or its small cost refunded. Sold and recommended by good druggists everywhere, such as: All May's Drug Stores.

Coolene is securing these remarkable results not only in this city but everywhere. Norman K. Sheets of Lancaster, Pa., pictured above, another popular messenger, also says: "Coolene is great for burning feet."

THEY'RE HERBS

These flower girls are not strewing flowers—they're herbs. They were scattered in the path of the queen-to-be as she made her way to the Heinz House throne.

MUSSOLINI & THE LIFE STORY of THE MAN OF DESTINY

Mussolini Rises to His Greatest Heights

Admired by Millions for What He Has Done For His Country

Name on Everyone's Lips

By VITTORIO DE FIORI

CHAPTER XXII.

TODAY Mussolini is Italy's Premier. Seated at his desk in the Chigi Palace, he works for the material and moral reconstruction of his country, attended by the love of the Italian people, who see in him the embodiment of all their aspirations, the man whom Italy vainly sought for many years, when powerful, enlightened minds were needed to steer the ship of state.

BENITO MUSSOLINI

Today Mussolini is the leader of the Fascist party. Around him still flock the brave and bold, the men whose sacred ideal and heartfelt religion is their country's welfare.

He is still young and full of vigor.

Ever since his accession to power, he has shown that he possesses a sound, firm concept of politics, together with all the requisites of a high-grade executive. Unlike Utopian idealists who set out to alter the course of history in accordance with their own preconceived theories, Mussolini has not attempted to create the new without taking into consideration the old. Like every true man of action, he has shown himself to be at the same time a revolutionist and a conservative.

He has rendered homage to the King and the Army. He has shown that he possesses the inhibitions necessary for refraining from becoming intoxicated with power. He uses Fascism for the ends that a new historical reality points out to him.

His Messages

"Our work begins today; we have destroyed; now we must reconstruct," he said to his folowers, while issuing orders to his leaders to the effect that discipline and respect of life and property must be strictly, inexorably enforced.

As the victorious leader of an irregular militia, he said to the army: "I want no honors. The army must neither applaud nor disapprove. It must simply and always obey."

He said to the Prefects: "All government officials, from the highest to the lowest, must faithfully perform their duty. I shall set the example."

He wired D'Annunzio: "We shall be sufficiently intelligent and tactful not to misuse our victory."

He sent the following message to all Italian embassies and legations abroad: "I expect a new and broader love of country to transpire from the actions of all of you."

To the American Secretary of State he sent this telegram: "On assuming the government at the request of His Majesty the King, I send you my most cordial greetings, trusting that the friendly economic and spiritual co-operation that has always existed between our respective countries will continue. This is all the more a pleasure to me because the Italian people look to the American nation with perfect confidence that it will be able to understand and appreciate the efforts put forth by the Italian nation to achieve the common victory."

To the Italians in America he sent this message: "On the anniversary of our victory, it gives me great pleasure to send a message of good will to the Italians who reside in North America. Just as the young men who came back victorious from the trenches united into a powerful organization, similar to the conquering legions of Rome, and succeeded in giving the nation a position worthy of the victory they had won, so are you also asked to form, in the name of Italy, a spiritual union that will give evidence of your strength and display the virtues of the Italian people even outside their own boundaries. Thus united, you will co-operate more efficiently not only for your own prosperity, but also for that of the noble nation that gives you hospitality and of which you are an important constituent factor. Italy has issued from the war with an increased sense of her own power and dignity. This same consciousness must make you proud of your Italian blood and cause you to honor the name of Italy wherever you may be. Long live Italy! Long live the United States!"

Population Increases

Discipline and work are the mainstays of Mussolini's internal policy. Peace and conciliation synthetize his foreign program.

What does Italy's Premier desire from the Allied nations? Simply the realization that in Europe, between the Alps and the three seas, there is a nation called Italy, with a territory slightly over half that of Texas, on which 40,000,000 people live and multiply; that while other nations of Europe are on the way to extinction, Italy's population increases at the rate of half a million a year; that Italy is no longer "the land of the dead," as Lamartine defined her, nor, in the words of Metternich, "a geographical expression," but a living, pulsating, growing, powerful organization that the Powers can no longer afford to disregard.

Mussolini wants more respect for the land of Dante and Machiavelli, Da Vinci and Michelangelo, Galileo and Columbus, Verdi and Garibaldi, Saint Francis and Savonarola, Marconi and D'Annunzio, the heroes of the Piave and Vittorio Veneto. He wants the voice of the nation that was a vital factor in the World War to be heard; he wants its strength and power to be recognized; he wants the Cinderella of the nations to awaken and receive a worthy place among the nations of the earth.

Mussolini does not want a territorial empire for Italy, but he does want a spiritual empire. He wants the Mediterranean for the Mediterranean nations. His foreign policy has been based and will be based on the principle of justice and fairness to all, Italy included.

Fascism today is at the peak of its power. Since the march on Rome, Italy has made wonderful progress and achieved surprising results; the morale of the Italian people has risen again, order has been restored, work intensified in every field and factory; the battle for the defense of the lira begun and won; the government put on a paying basis; the struggle for the intensification of agriculture brought to a successful completion; a great organization of syndicates of workers, employers, professional men and artists created, with the result that class war has come to an end and strikes have disappeared; the colonial issues have been closed; the Fiume question done away with; treaties of friendship and compulsory arbitration signed with many nations of the old and the new world; the question of the war debts to Great Britain and America settled; the campaign for the Lictorial loan successfully carried out, and the corporative plan of the Fascist State realized by means of the Labor Charter.

Change of Government

After this comparatively short, but strenuous period of Fascist domination, Mussolini is able to state with justifiable pride:

"We have the merit of having changed the government into a living organism, duly functioning in the national society, and replacing a red-tape, ineffcient government that allowed itself to be attacked and insulted in a sort of absurd duel in which the opposition was sacred and intangible and had all rights, while the government only possessed the privilege of constituting a comfortable, indulgent target for the attacks of its opponents. I declare that this is an absolutely suicidal theory, and if the doctrine of liberalism is embodied in this theory, I am strongly anti-liberal."

Notwithstanding the profound changes that have taken place in Italy within the last few years, Mussolini repeats:

"We have accomplished nothing as yet; at least, nothing new. We still have a constitution that is like a 12-year-old girl's dress worn by a florid woman of 20. In 1848, when that constitution was promulgated, there was no Italy; Piedmont was a strong state, but it was small and in the progress of formation; there was no press, there were no means of communication, there was no industry, there were no large cities. The little dress is short and tight, threadbare and full of holes; yet people cry out: 'It must not be touched!' Why not? If it no longer fits, it must be changed."

When he speaks of the future generations, his eyes kindle with the clear, cold light of his unbending will.

"Twenty thousand leaders, teachers, engineers, bankers and manufacturers; 5,000 army officers; 3,000 magistrates; 10,000 public officials; all first class, specialized men, imbued with organic technicism to the marrow; that is what Italy needs; that is what I am preparing for her. From 40,000 to 50,000 men who will function like clockwork, marking the hours of

CHINA CHIEF DEAD

TOKYO, June 12.—(AP.)—The Japanese war office today received word of the death of Chang Tso-Lin, Manchurian war lord and former northern dictator, who was the victim of a bomb at Mukden after he had abdicated.

The bomb outrage occurred as the trains bearing Chang and members of his staff from Pekin entered the suburbs of Mukden on June 4. Several members of his staff were killed including Wu Chun-Sheng, military governor of the province of Heilunkiang.

Chang was at first reported slightly injured as rumors spread, however, that news of his death was being kept secret pending the arrival of his eldest son. The Japanese war minister on June 6 said that Chang was alive but in a serious condition. Since that time he has been reported to be in a comatose state.

Chang withdrew from Pekin on June 3 after a rule of nearly two years as dictator of Northern China when his troops failed to halt the drive of the Southeern Nationalist) troops toward the northeern capital.

DANCERS DRAG ON

Four couples pushed 204 hours of continuous dancing into the background at noon today and were on another century of hours, in the Allegheny valley dance marathon at the Ku Klen Gardens, New Kensington. Joseph Sadoski, Brackenridge, and Silvo Fazio, Pittsburgh, yielded their chance for a record after dancing 192 hours and 10 minutes.

Out in Motor Square Garden, 31 Negro couples were on their second day of the grind for a marathon record. Three couples dropped out during the night, leaving 62 persons with a mark of 35 hours.

Nine couples were strutting their stuff in the Academy marathon at noon, 111 hours after they started.

Among those who have been forced to drop out of the Academy marathon is Corinne Nightingale of the North Side, whose partner was unable to keep up the pace. The pair went 90 hours.

THE only man not at all indignant about the rainy weather which gripped Pittsburgh for eight days was the weatherman, who pointed out that June in Pittsburgh is always a rainy month. Some people bothered with rheumatism can always tell when rain is about to descend. We don't have rheumatism, but our barometer is just as accurate as the rheumatic one. You can bet all the tea in China that on the day we get our automobile washed or on the day that we water our lawn the precipitation, as we say, will be unusual.

"AND HOW," is the most popular slang expression today. Ou. sense of humor is so low that we never got a thrill out of any of the slang expressions, ranging from "Twenty-three, Skiddoo," to "So's Your Old Man," which, by the way, seemed to be more meaningless than most of the slang phrases. Of the many slang expressions that come around from period to period it is difficult for the average man to remember more than five. Not being even average, we can't remeber that many.

His body was recovered several hours later by some miners.

Richardson Takes Bob A Prisoner and Accuses Him of the Murder

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

The body of Tom Kingsley is picked up by Capt. "Scarface" Sweeney and his mate, Marlow, off Singapore. Tom's brother, Robert, also an old "sea dog," is notified of the death and receives articles found on the corpse. Among these are two small but handsomely carved Ivory Idols. Robert Kingsley has good reason to believe that Hsi Yan, an ancient enemy, has returned after 30 years to seek vengeance. The Idols are stolen and Young Bob starts out to recover them. Hidden in the hold of the ship he overhears five Chinamen plotting. The East Indian "Holy Man" is stabbed to death by one of the Chinamen. The Holy Man turns out to be Verna's brother, and she accuses Bob of the murder. The boat sinks and after many hardships Bob rescues Verna with the help of a Malay whom he had saved. Bob tells Verna his story of the idols. The natives come to the island bringing a white man with them.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

THE serang and the white man had come to a sudden halt some 10 paces away, and now Bob Kingsley saw the serang point excitedly in his direction. There was a hurried exchange of words between the two, and then the man in the pith helmet stepped briskly forward.

"So it appears you have escaped, after all!" he said gruffly. "Your name's Kingsley, alias Moore, or something, isn't it? Seems to me I've heard the name of Kingsley before—and no saintly halo adorning it, either! No good messing around with that revolver! Hand it over!"

Bob Kingsley glanced at the revolver in his hand. He had forgotten it. He answered the demand for the weapon now by thrusting it coolly into his trousers' pocket—and staring appraisingly at the other. The man's face was not overwhelmingly prepossessing. There was something domineering in the insolent stare of the eye, and the set of the lips; and there was a sallowness to the skin that no tan would hide. Too many years of monarchial life amongst the natives! Too much gin for the good of the liver and the sweetening of one's disposition! He placed the other at between forty and forty-five years of age.

"You seem to have the advantage of me," he said calmly. "What is your name?"

"Name of Richardson—as you'll have cause to remember if this man's story is borne out!" snapped the other. "Meanwhile, where is Miss Lyle? The natives say she was here with you." He stepped around the end of the boat—and halted abruptly as his eyes fell upon the prostrate figure on the sand. "You bounder" he ejaculated menacingly. "What have you done to her!"

The red flushed Bob Kingsley's cheeks, but he made no retort. Because of the five Chinamen he could not afford to make an enemy of this man if he could help it—otherwise it would have afforded him intense delight to plant his fist in the other's face.

"Miss Lyle is ill—completely exhausted," he said quietly. "You'd better have your men make some sort of a litter for her, so as to carry her as comfortably as possible."

"I don't need to be told what to do with her," snarled Richardson. "It's you, young fellow, my lad! Your serang told me that Miss Lyle said you murdered her brother out there on the ship a few hours ago; he seems to be coming around a bit; and, if she says it's true, you'll find your wings clipped so's you won't fly far until the proper authorities get their nippers on you."

Verna was sitting up, swaying a little, her hands pressed to her eyes.

Richardson went to her.

"Better, eh, Miss Lyle?" he said. "We'll get you to Aoru, all right. But I want to know about this man. Is it true that—"

"Oh, let her alone!" Bob Kingsley burst out savagely. "Can't you see she's not fit for that sort of thing! I'll answer you for her. She'll tell you it's so—that I killed her brother on the Monotah last night."

"Ah!" Richardson shot out the exclamation through shut teeth. "So you admit it, do you?"

"I admit nothing of the sort," Bob Kingsley returned curtly. "I am simply giving you the answer Miss Lyle would have made if she were in a condition to be questioned."

"Well, that's good enough!" declared Richardson grimly. He issued some orders rapidly in Malay. A half dozen natives closed in an Bob Kingsley; and, while two of them suddenly caught hold of his arms, another snatched the revolver from his pocket. Richardson smiled unpleasantly. "I hadn't forgotten the revolver, you see!" he said in a hard tone. "You're going along with these men to Aoru, and the less fuss you make the better it will be for you! I don't know how long it will be before I can hand you over to the authorities, but until that time comes, you'll be kept under guard, and the treatment you get depends on yourself! Mark that, my lad!"

Bob Kingsley suddenly and swiftly shook himself free of the natives around him. The serang and another man were carrying Verna away across the beach. She seemed to have elapsed again into a state of semi-consciousness, for she was very limp and very silent in their arms. And Richardson now had turned on his heel and was following the serang.

"Just a minute!" Bob Kingsley shouted after the other. "There's something I want to say to you!"

"I know all I want to know!" Richardson answered gruffly over his shoulder, without pausing in his stride.

For an instant Bob Kingsley stood motionless. His brain seemed suddenly to be in a riot. Where were the five Chinamen? The face of Chen-shu with its bent nose, and smug, oily smile seemed to flash in vivid, ugly premonition before his eyes—and Won Fu with a naked and uplifted knife! And they were free, at liberty—to strike stealthily, craftily. Being unsuspected, they might only too easily get at Verna! And this blind, self-sufficient fool wouldn't listen! Well, he would have to listen—and listen now!

"Richardson!" he shouted imperatively.

The man did not even turn his head.

Bob Kingsley took a quick, impulsive step forward. The natives caught at him, closed in on him again, and held him back.

"Get out of the road! D'ye hear!" he rasped at them. "I want to talk to that man!"

They chattered angrily in return—and held him the more tightly.

And then fury came upon Bob Kingsley—and he fought them tigerishly. Once he got his arms free, and two men went down before his knotted fists. But it could not last. Other natives, from here and there on the beach, came running to the assistance of their companions. They swarmed upon him, striking and battering at him mercilessly, and by sheer weight bore him to the ground and hurled themselves on top of him.

His head was singing from the blows he had received, when, still pinned on the ground, he saw Richardson return on the run and jostle his way through the natives. And now the man was standing over him, shaking a threatening fist.

"So that's your game, is it!" Richardson growled furiously. "Well, I warned you! Two can play at it! There was a fellow who once made me a present of a couple of little curios—and I never thought they'd be good for anything else! I fancy he used to be in the black-birding trade years ago, so I reckon it won't puzzle you much to put a name to what I'm talking about. Manacles and leg irons, my lad—and I'm going to pass them on to you as soon as you get to Aoru! But you try any more of this thing on the way in, and I won't answer for you getting there alive!"

And before Bob Kingsley, still in a half-dazed condition, could speak, Richardson had walked away.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

FEAR had come upon Bob Kingsley, and as the hours passed it knawed the deeper at the man's soul. At times his impotence drove him near to the verge of madness; at times he was like a man panic-stricken in the face of stark despair.

All day he had been here in his improvised prison house, his appeals unheeded, and powerless in a physical sense to aid himself. Richardson had very literally kept his word. He had not seen Richardson since the men had left him in the hands of the natives out there on the beach; but, on reaching Aoru, he, Bob Kingsley, had been thrust into an old shed on the plantation, and the "curios"—not far from being literally true, too!—in the shape of leg-irons and manacles had been shackled on his ankles and wrists. They were crudely and cheaply made, those irons, as befitted the sordid market for which they were produced, when, in the not so very long-ago, the black-birders bought them in wholesale quantities for their unholy trade. And they were rusty now with the rust of years—but they were strong. He could move about with short steps, at a shuffling gait; the leg-irons permitted that—no more!

Miss Lincoln Changes Her Mind About Posing With Fedor

I WALKED away from the telephone swiftly as Eleanor Lincoln took the receiver from my hand. I had no wish to linger within earshot of her telephone conversation with Dicky. But as I came to the foot of the stairs, meaning to go into the library, Lillian coming down grasped my arm and drew me out upon the veranda, where, though out of sight of the hall, every word over the telephone was audible.

"There's such a thing as being too quixotic," she said, speaking from the corner of her mouth in the almost noiseless manner she has perfected. "I have reasons of my own for wanting to hear this."

From the hall came Eleanor Lincoln's voice, beautifully modulated, low-pitched, yet as distinct as if we were at her elbow. The perfunctory greetings were over and she had plunged at once into her message.

"Do you know I have been most remorseful about last week," she began. "I did not realize how I must have upset your plans by refusing to pose with Fedor after you had thought out your definite scheme."

"That was my bet with myself," Lillian whispered in the pause which signified Dicky's answer to the girl's apology, "that she'd telephone him she'll pose."

"That's awfully sweet of you," the girl said next. "But I've made up my mind that I'll pose with Fedor, as you wished. I've made inquiries, and I find that the thing which kept me from granting your request isn't nearly as formidable as I thought, and I am sure it will be perfectly all right."

Another pause, but a much shorter one.

"Why, any day, at any time that I'm not busy with Mrs. Graham on my drama-history course. Oh!"—evidently surprised at some exclamation of Dicky's. "I thought you knew about it. Yes, I am studying with her. It was Mr. Veritzen's suggestion. He is being a sort of fairy godfather to my stage ambitions, and he told me that the first thing I ought to do was to take a course in the history of the drama and that Mrs. Graham was the best teacher I could get. I've only had one lesson so far, but I surely agree with Mr. Veritzen. Mrs. Graham is a perfectly marvelous teacher."

There was another pause, while Lillian clapped my shoulder jubilantly.

"I'll bet that was a jolt for the Dicky-bird," she said. "He'll be calling you to the telephone in another minute, but don't you dare weaken. Listen!"

Eleanor Lincoln was speaking again.

"Oh, surely, I can give you all the time you wish tomorrow afternoon," she said. "Just give me half an hour's notice. Oh! Les, she's right here—no—not just here, but I'll call her."

We heard her high-heeled slippers tapping down the hall and her voice calling. "Oh! Mrs. Graham." I walked rapidly to the door and met her.

"Mr. Graham wishes to speak to you," she said, and went back into the library. I walked to the telephone, stood motionless before it for an instant, pulling myself together, for I sensed a coming contest of wills with my husband, then spoke quietly into the transmitter.

"Miss Lincoln says you wish to speak with me," I said quietly.

High Blood Pressure Chokes The Heart

The grave danger of high blood pressure lies in the fact that it throws a burden on the heart; some day this may suddenly bring on a stroke.

If your blood pressure is high now, don't gamble with serious consequences any longer, but go to your druggist at once and get a package of the new salt compound called Lithuric Salts. Eat These Luscious Oranges

Sunkist have richer juice, finer flavor

Your doctor will tell you to eat oranges liberally each day to protect and promote health. Every Sunkist Orange displayed by store or stand is a good health message direct from California's orchards.

Oranges are writing a new health story. Today, the Medical Profession recognizes oranges as one of the most potent correctives of ACIDOSIS, a common malady due to too much acid food which creates an "under-par" condition. Oranges, like lemons, though known as acid fruits, have an alkaline reaction in the body, thus providing a quick, convenient insurance against Acidosis. Drink orange juice liberally.

Sweet, juicy, California oranges contain quantities of vitamins and mineral salts. They are a necessity in body building. You cannot eat too many oranges—in salads and desserts, out of hand, or as juice.

Sunkist Oranges are uniformly dependable—and available wherever fruit is sold. They are packed in ten different sizes—a size for every pocketbook. It is a fine health habit to keep these sweet, practically seedless oranges on hand at all times.

Richest Juice—Finest Flavor

To be sure of getting California Sunkist Oranges look for the trade-mark on the fruit and on the wrapper.

Something was pulling his punches

THAT'S what it amounted to. He was irritable, unhappy, worn-out. He knew more about his job than ever, but he didn't have his old punch.

He'd tried to get it back—tried health foods that took weeks to act . . . cathartics that wracked his system. And he had begun to feel as though they were doing more harm than good . . .

Feen-a-mint is different!

It's just like a bit of delicious chewing gum. You don't swallow it—you chew it!

Its magic laxative principle is released slowly, the way science meant it to be released. It actually becomes part of the digestive fluids—does not disturb digestion. It works with the body—not against it!

It won't torture you with griping pains. It won't poison or weaken the system. It won't enslave you to laxative pills. Get Feen-a-mint at your druggist's. Correct constipation—now!

NINTH ST. CLUB RAIDED

In a raid on the Travelers' Social Club, second and third floors of 130 Ninth street last night Federal prohibition agents report seizing gin, home brew, moonshine and wine. Shortly afterward the agents confiscated, in the Lafayette Club, second floor, 5139 Penn avenue, a pint of whisky and a pint of beer, they reported. W. C. Ault, of Millvale avenue, and Thomas Graham, of Fayette street, were reported taken into custody.

Returning to Braddock, where they have conducted intermittent raids recently, the agents visited a Wood way residence and seized, according to their report, four barrels of whisky chips and three barrels of chips mixed with whisky.

SETTLE BRIDGE DAMAGE SUITS

Two consent verdicts were taken in Common Pleas Court involving $17,500, against the County of Allegheny for the confiscation of property taken in building the approach to the Washington Crossing Bridge.

In both cases the beneficiaries agreed to accept the viewers' award of five years ago, according to Attorney W. C. Jacobs, representing the county, and without interest. These included the claims of Emma Parchment for $5,000 and that of Ellen Reardon for $12,500. The acceptance of the awards by the litigants, Mr. Jacobs stated, clears up all the damage claims against the county, by reason of the bridge improvement.

'KIDNAPED' PAIR BACK HOME

Search for a supposed kidnaper was called off today when Mrs. Donna Lensy, 25, Negro, of 5524 Schenley avenue, notified police she was back home, with her stepson, Benjamin Hicks, 7. They left home with a Negro last night and a reported abduction was attributed by police to excited neighbors.

Husband Boasted Of Conquests, Wife Says

A girl known as "Miss Billie," 25, figures in the bill of particulars filed by Mrs. Ruth Simmonds, 523 Flynn avenue, Carnegie in her divorce suit against Edgar J. Simmonds, 700 Noblestown road.

Mrs. Simmonds says her husband was found thrice at his home with Miss Billie, a visitor.

Cruelty and desertion are the grounds set forth. The wife says her husband stayed out until 3 and 4 o'clock nine nights out of 10 and boasted of his conquest of a blonde. She says he told her that if it were not for her he would have a big automobile at his disposal. She says he caressed other women in her presence. The couple were married in 1920 and separated in 1925.

Circus Dinner Dance at Willows to Hold Appeal for Grown-Ups as Well as for Children

BABIES' HOME -:- PREPARING GARDEN PARTY -:- AS BENEFIT

MRS. NELLE MOORE SPROWLS

Mrs. Nelle Moore Sprowls will have charge of the program for the garden party at the Pittsburgh Home for Babies, June 20.

RUTH GORDON

Miss Ruth Gordon will do a group of classic dances and another of tap dances at the annual garden party to be held at the home.

MRS. A. R. BUDD

The ticket committee for the annual affair is headed by Mrs. A. R. Budd, who is assisted by Mrs. J. B. McKillops.

FROM all I hear, this circus dinner dance which the Skin and Cancer Foundation dispensary board is giving Friday night at the Willows is going to be a highly entertaining affair. It will be novel, to say the least. The circus idea is an appealing one, just about as attractive to grownup children as it is to the smaller ones.

They are going to serve dinner, of course, at tables placed around the ballroom floors, but no one is to go hungry later in the evening. A special committee is in charge of providing "eats" that are suitable to the general theme of the party, and they will be served after dinner is over. There will be ice cream cones and peanuts, not to mention those standbys of the circus, crackerjack and popcorn.

Mrs. Gertrude Wood Lawson is in charge of this feature, and she is being helped by Mary Louise Johnson, Josephine Nicola, Eleanor McCargo, Genevieve Bell, Elizabeth Scott and Mrs. Thomas Grant McCutcheon, Jr.

Lots of local folks are planning to entertain parties, most of them quite small, at the dance. Mrs. Henry B. Rust, Mrs. Ambrose Diehl and Mrs. Gordon Coltart King, the latter of whom is chairman of the special prizes, have taken tables, and so have Mrs. Knowles Woodwell, Mrs. William F. Moreland and Mrs. James Edward Lewis. Malcolm McGiffin and Moorhead Holland are planning to be hosts at the dance, as well as Mrs. J. Sidney Hammond, Mrs. Harmar D. Denny, Jr., George Hahn, Mrs. Jerome Hill and Mrs. William S. Moorhead.

With this month so full of parties and weddings and benefits, the greater part of our society folks, both in Pittsburgh and Sewickley, are at home just now. A few who have been visiting in other cities are back, too. Among the latter is Mrs. Hepburn Walker, of Shields. She arrived in the valley Sunday morning from the East, where she visited the Burgoyne Hamiltons, of New York, at their summer home in Westport, Conn. She also was the guest of friends on Long Island.

We have been having some visitors from New York in town, I hear. They are Mr. and Mrs. Boykin Cabell Wright, and they have been the guests of Mr. Wright's sister and her husband, the James Frazier Hillmans, of Shady avenue.

Added to that constantly lengthening list of June weddings is that of Margaret Meals, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel W. Meals of North Negley avenue, whose engagement to William Frederick Ewart, son of the William McKibbin Ewarts, of Forbes street and Beechwood boulevard, was announced some time ago.

Margaret has chosen June 23 for her wedding, and it will take place at 8:30 o'clock in her home. Her sister, Mary Belle, will be maid of honor and the flower girl will be Shirley Jean Krick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Krick. Mr. Ewart is going to have his brother, Samuel Dicken Ewart, for his best man.

On Saturday night at 7 o'clock in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Hall Steele, of Wightman street, the marriage of their daughter, Miss Dorothy Schryver Steele, and William Earle Bikle, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Bikle, of Hagerstown, Md., was solemnized by the Rev. Dr. H. N. Cameron.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a bouffant gown of white georgette with a bertha of old duchess lace, an heirloom in the family. Her tulle veil was arranged in cap effect with orange blossoms, and she carried orchids, white roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Martha Jane Steele, as maid of honor, appeared in pink georgette and carried spring flowers, while the little flower girl, Catherine Vaughn, wore a frock of pink chiffon and carried a basket of variegated blossoms. Robert Atwell was best man and the ushers included Dr. Edwin Glotfelty and J. E. Vaughn.

A reception and dinner followed the ceremony and later, Mr. and Mrs. Bikle left for a trip to the Adirondacks. They will be at home in Oakmont after July 1.

The wedding of Miss Edna Elizabeth Kohl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George P. Kohl, of Sheraden, and Frank Henry Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bruce Smith, also of Sheraden, took place last night at 7:45 o'clock in Trinity Lutheran Church with the Rev. Charles Eisenbach officiating. The bride wore white chiffon embroidered with pearls and crystals, and her tulle veil was arranged in cap effect with pearls. She carried white roses showered with lilies of the valley. Miss Marion Smith, as maid of honor, appeared in pink chiffon with a picture hat to match, and carried pink rosebuds. William Kohl was best man. A dinner for the families followed the ceremony in the Kohl home. After an eastern trip, Mr. and Mrs. Smith will be at home in Sheraden.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. McAdams, of Coraopolis, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Virginia Elizabeth McAdams, and Robert J. Walsh, son of Mrs. Mary C. Walsh, of Crafton, which was solemnized Saturday at noon in the McAdams home by the Rev. J. F. Stone, of Sewickley. The bride wore peach georgette with a picture hat to match and carired tea roses. Miss Dorothy McAdams, as maid of honor, appeared in beige georgette with hat to match, and her flowers were pink rosebuds. Willis Kinsey, of Crafton, was best man. A luncheon in the Hotel Brodhead, in Beaver Falls, followed the ceremony. After a motor trip to the lakes Mr. and Mrs. Walsh will be at home in South Emily street, Crafton.

The marriage of Miss Hilda Bates, of Turtle Creek, daughter of Albert Bates and the late Mrs. Florence Jenkinson Bates, and William B. Sellers, of Wilkinsburg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Sellers, of Harrisburg, was solemnized Saturday at 3:30 o'clock by the Rev. George J. Buck, acting pastor of the First Baptist Church of Turtle Creek. Miss Leona LaMartin, of Trafford City, and Harold L. Smith, of Wilkinsburg, were the attendants. After June 18 Mr. and Mrs. Sellers will be at home in Oak street, Turtle Creek.

Miss Edith E. Macormac, of Avalon, entertained with a shower last night in honor of Miss Jean E. Wiley, of Watson boulevard, whose marriage to Dr. J. DeWitt Baker, of Woodlawn, will be solemnized Saturday. There were 12 guests.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Burgun of Third avenue, Coraopolis, have made known the engagement of their daughter, Miss Kathleen L. Burgun, to Dan E. Dunmire, Jr., of Rossiter, Pa., son of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Dunmire, of Greensburg.

WOMAN'S CLUB PLANS PROGRAM OF MERIT

From October 2 until June 4, members of the Woman's Club of the City of Pittsburgh will find themselves provided with a season filled with interest, if plans announced in the new year books are carried out. The first meeting will be the president's day reception, which will be held, as will all the other meetings, in the Congress of Clubs.

Among the speakers slated to appear before the club are Miss Jane Bryce, principal of the Girls' Vocational School; Mrs. John M. Phillips, chairman of the American home department, State Federation of Pennsylvania Women; Mrs. J. Charles Wilson, who will read; Mrs. H. C. Reller, who will describe her cruise around the world; Dr. N. Andrew N. Cleven, of the University of Pittsburgh, who will speak on "International Relations;" Miss Roberta Johns, of the International Institute; Mrs. Frederick G. Chalfant, of the Better Magazines Council, and Thomas Liggett, whose subject will be "Our State Parks—Their Use—Their Value."

A reception to new members will be one of the late season's events, other special occasions including a Pennsylvania day program in March, a drama day with a program by the Pennsylvania College for Women's drama department in February and a special Christmas program on December 18.

A series of porch parties is being planned by the East Liberty Woman's Club for the stay at homes of the summer, the dates and places to be decided upon shortly. The club, which will begin its autumn activities with a family picnic in Highland Park on Sept. 10, held its annual outing yesterday at the summer home of Mrs. E. L. Rowe, Ridge road, near Gibsonia, the women motoring out in the morning. A picnic luncheon was served at tables on the lawn and the afternoon was spent at bridge and games. Mrs. Sara E. King, social chairman, had the day in charge. Mrs. Rollins A. Haddock, Jr., president of the club, will leave tomorrow for her summer home in Chautauqua, N. Y.

With its annual picnic on July 2, Trinity Branch, Girls' Friendly Society, will bring to a close a very busy year. Plans for the 1928-29 program are already under way and the program committee is asking for suggestions. Miss Mary Jane Paul has been engaged for classes in "pleasing English;" Elmer Kenyon will give several lectures on the drama and Dr. Agnes Ferguson will carry on her health classes in corrective work. The usual courses in literature, art, handcraft, bridge and dancing will be continued and a class of indoor golf and one in bowling are being provided for. Much the same sort of projects will be undertaken, Miss Ethel Jones heading a committee which is to conduct a "Carnival of Nations," and Miss Anna Hibbs and Miss Ida Solomon taking charge of the Christmas card sale. The annual play will be "Sally," tentatively set for May 17 and 18 at the Nixon Theater.

An innovation is to be introduced at the Dickens Fellowship's annual Tiny Tim picnic this year. At the conclusion of the supper for the crippled children, which is always the crowning event of the afternoon, the members will partake of a picnic supper, too. The affair will be held on Friday in rhododendron house, Highland Park, with children present from the Industrial Home for Crippled Children, the Children's Hospital, the orthopedic clinic, Allegheny General Hospital, St. Paul's Orphanage, Soho and Irene Kaufmann Settlements, the Salvation Army and other institutions.

The 65 members of the Aspinwall High School graduating class will be entertained tonight at a dinner-dance, which the school committee of the Aspinwall Woman's Club will give in the clubhouse. Honors will be shared by Miss Mary Harris and John Byron Henry, Jr., who tied for first honors in the class. The decorations of red roses, yellow snap dragon and marguerites and gold candles will carry out the class colors, red and gold.

"SPRING IN THE CITY"

To the Young Girl a Love-Song
To the Young Mother the Country for Her Baby

Drawn by
Nell Brinkley

PAN pipes in the city at smoked stone ledges, at wrought-iron balconies, and fire-escape hedged windows. You wouldn't think that capering god of Spring ventured there, but he does, and there his reedy singing hurts the worst. To dream of country meadows, their green embroidered with flowers and showered with the dye-like pink and drifted snow of fruit-trees in bloom, above the clamour of a city street, is the most painful dreaming. Perfume overlaid on gasoline is unattainable sweet on top of bitter, which is notoriously the sweetest, most poignantly irritating sweet of all.

Pan pipes at many a different window, wherein sits many a different sort of girl. And though each dream that he summons has bloom and blue sky and open country in it, they are quite different—one from the other.

The girl with plenty, with not a heart string tied to any one who needs her, fancy-free, but in love with Love himself, hears only a love-song in the eerie fluting of Spring. She sees a sparkling mountain-lake, sprays of peach-blossoms in the sun, a sky like the inside of a robin's egg-blue bowl, velvet grass and a world empty save for herself, the birds and ONE OTHER. The unknown lover. A selsh and youthful dream.

The girl with not so much, and yet a great deal—for she has a baby that she thinks the most wonderful and beautiful baby that has yet been seen in the world—with the strings of HER heart all balled up and entangled with those of the ones who need her! she, too, hears Pan's pipes; and the dream they conjure is bigger, less selsh, more wishful! Meadows, yes, and blooming little trees breaking out over it in sweetness and color; flowers, yes, and azure silk sky, bird and bees, too. But all for a baby who sits in the midst of it with a flower in his fist!

—NELL BRINKLEY.

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

by HELEN ROWLAND

MARRIAGE IS NOT A DIME NOVEL

LOTS of people are writing to the Department of Justice in Washington, asking for relief in their marital affairs.

But why write to the Department of Justice? What you need in marriage, is not justice—but MERCY!

There is a clause in the Constitution which states that its purpose is to secure for this fair land "Domestic Tranquillity."

HELEN ROWLAND

But nobody seems to be satisfied with "tranquillity" these days. What everybody is seeking in marriage is a thrill! Which is about as logical as going to the Equator to find a snowstorm, or to a modern drug store to look for medicine.

Thrills are momentary things—marriage is a permanent affair.

Thrills are surprises or shocks—but the fewer surprises and shocks you get in marriage, the luckier you are.

Thrills are Life's fireworks and bonfires; marriage is the quiet, comforting warmth of a hearth fire, the steady glow of an altar fire.

Thrills are the high spots of life. But you can't hit the high spots ALL of the time, without coming a cropper or dropping dead from exhaustion. There is no such thing as a continuous thrill, a perpetual emotion or a non-stop joy ride.

That is why "companionate marriage" is such a bad joke. It is based on the childish notion that marriage is just a "sex-periment" in the search for one, long non-stop thrill.

But nobody who loves you so little or so lightly that he or she would AGREE to a companionate marriage, loves you enough to make a success of any marriage. Love is a thing so much BIGGER than mere sex-attraction, that the latter soon becomes only one of its minor considerations—like the powdered-sugar on the cake.

Love includes lots of things besides sex-attraction. It includes understanding, companionship, faith, congeniality, romance, tenderness—and TRANQUILLITY! Tranquillity of heart, tranquillity of mind, tranquillity of spirit.

To marry a man who, like a dime novel or a western movie, keeps you breathless with suspense, doubts, excitement and uncertainty, is to court nervous prostration, high blood pressure and sudden divorce.

To marry a woman who gives you nothing but thrills, is to sign up for a life on the firing line at Chateau Thierry.

If you must have continuous thrills, go in for aviation, war or bootlegging. But when you go in for marriage, find somebody who gives you PEACE—peace of heart, peace of mind, and peace of soul.

THAT'S marriage! Marriage is not a dime novel! It's a song of rest.

Arthritis Simply the Old "Misery"

ONE of the ailments which people write me about almost more than anything else is chronic arthritis. This is an inflammation of the joints and tissues immediately around them. Almost everbody speaks of this trouble as rheumatism.

DR. COPELAND

I assume that arthritis is one of the oldest of diseases of which we have any record. Among common people it used to be called "misery." It is confused with neuritis, lumbago, sciatica and a lot of other ailments.

Among the causes of arthritis and rheumatic conditions of this type we find strains, infections and the changes which come as a result of age. To relieve the symptoms, carloads of patent medicines and barrels of liniments have been used. It is the joy of quacks and charlatans.

Arthritis differs from acute rheumatic fever which comes on suddenly, causing severe pain in the joints. All at once it leaves one joint to attack another one. When the disease wears out, no deformity is left. It may affect the heart, but the joint troubles disappear.

It is safe to assume that the germs responsible for arthritis have had an abiding place in some other part of the body. There has been what we call a focus of infection. There may be pussy tonsils, abscesses at the roots of the teeth, diseases of the nasal sinuses, a running ear, or trouble in the gall bladder or the generative organs.

What we call auto-intoxication has been held responsible by a good many for the production or aggravation of arthritis. I have no question that obstinate constipation may aggravate a case of arthritis. It is doubtful, however, if this region is a frequent cause of such attacks.

I have told you a great many times about certain diseases that it is better to prevent them than to attempt to cure them. That is true of this disease. As a matter of fact, after the joints have become infected, the chronic trouble is not likely to be permanently cured by removing the focus of infection.

I do not need to tell you how necessary it is to take good care of the teeth. They should be thoroughly cleansed every day, X-rayed occasionally, and whenever there is any sign of trouble you should have the dentist make the necessary repair.

I may say of all the other organs that if there is trouble it should be corrected. In other words, the focus of infection should be removed if possible.

Tomorrow I will speak of the treatment.

Put An End To Eczema Tortured Skin

Remedy That Costs But Little At Any Drug Store Never Disappoints.

When your skin itches and is fiery and eczema tortures you night and day why not go to your druggist and get a 35-cent box of Peterson's Ointment?

For many years its mighty healing power has been of great benefit to sufferers from eczema and we are sure that one box will prove it to you.

Read what Temple Carter of Gary, Ind., writes—It proves what a blessing Peterson's Ointment is for skin troubles.

"My whole face was ruined with livid splashes, blackheads and patches. I could get no relief from anything I used. After using the sample box of Peterson's Ointment the ugly skin began to disappear, so I got a box from my druggist. My skin is now like glass, smooth and clear, and I look like I did 15 years ago. With pleasure you are permitted to publish these wonderful results. I cannot praise Peterson's Ointment enough. I hope this will help all skin sufferers."

For the Lovelorn

By ELEANOR GALE

I. M. Considerate

DEAR MISS GALE:

Here is a problem for which I need some help. Two of my friends, a boy and girl, are very much overcome by each other. I know the boy loves the girl pretty much, and so with the girl, but recently, when she asks me to spend an evening with her boy friend at her home when they don't have a date for themselves, she has been doing something I don't like. Here it is: Most every time I am there she tries to sit near the window facing the street. Every few minutes or so she has the habit of parting the curtains and taking a look out into the street (presumably to see if any of her boy friends are passing. She is pretty popular, I may add). Now as a gentleman, I wouldn't dare think she does it for that purpose, but according to the following lines I must, when some fellows pass by the window she has to part the curtains again and see who they are. If she has some doubt as to who they are, she sometimes opens the door and has a good look at them. Once she asked me to see who were some fellows passing by. Another thing—when an automobile or street car passes she many times parts the curtains to see who are her conductor friends or who is passing in his car. When an auto horn blows it's a rush for the window. When outside, matters are much worse. Now the point is this: Do you think she has the right to do this while her best boy is there? Do you think she is giving him consideration due him while he is there, or is insulting him or getting tired of him? I don't think she is doing right. What is your opinion? The boy is aware of her actions, but takes it lightly.

I. M. CONSIDERATE.

This girl's actions are not in good taste, but if the other boy doesn't worry about it, why should you?

The Innocent

DEAR MISS GALE:

I have read the "Lovelorn" for quite a long while and have found it to be very interesting, but I have never written to you for advice. I am only 14 and a freshman in high school, but I'm in love with a junior. I met him just recently and it was he who arranged the introduction. But, Miss Gale, he acts queerly, I think. Whenever I see him we always say "hello" to each other, but he never stops and talks to me like he does to other girls, and if it was he who arranged to be introduced, as I know it was, then I don't know why he won't talk to me. He's had many, many chances, too. I attended a game which he attended once. He walked all around the place and stopped to talk to every girl there, almost, but me. He spoke, but that was all. I was with a girl friend, but that shouldn't have mattered, because he was introduced to her at the same time that he was to me. He has never asked me for a date, although one night he met me on the street with a friend of his and they took me for an automobile ride. This is the trouble with me, Miss Gale: I'm far too bashful when I'm around boys and I don't know what to talk about. I've never had a date in my life. I think it is my privilege, is it not, for me to ask this boy to call on me? Should I tell him what night to come or shall I tell him to set the night? Then when he gets here how shall I entertain him? Could I ask him to go for a walk if there's nothing to do at home?

THE INNOCENT.

Yes, my dear, it is your privilege to invite him to call, but let him be the one to suggest a definite occasion. You must have many interests in common, such as school and friends, and you can find plenty to talk about, I know. It would be all right to suggest taking a walk, if you care to do so. Try to forget yourself. That is the best way to overcome shyness.

New York's Most Beautiful Hands

They are the hands of Miss Annette Grandin, the most photographed hands in the world. They are so white and smooth that they can stand "close-up" reproduction. And here's the secret, according to Miss Grandin:

"I use no fancy or expensive lotions, but make a skin bleach of my own. I get three ounces of Orchard White at the corner druggist and mix it with the juice of two lemons. This makes a full quarter pint of a remarkable, and at the same time perfectly harmless, bleach. I rub a little into my hands—also my neck and face—every night, and don't worry about freckles, tan or redness. This simple mixture not only keeps the skin clear and white, but luxuriously soft and smooth to the touch.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

THE sidereal operations for this day point to the substantial rewards and emoluments the just return for application, perserverance and hard labor required to bridge over difficult places. Recognition and preferment may be expected from old persons and institutions. New projects are favored, but be not hasty nor quarrelsome.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of reaping returns for long and difficult labors and endurance against much opposition and trial. New undertakings may be launched, with assistance from elderly people and institutions, but be calm and refrain from disputes. Personal conditions give pleasure. A child born on this day may be industrious, persistent and capable and should succeed from its own merits and hard work as by the assistance of others.

Work, in some capacity is necessary to bring into outward manifestation and develop the tremendous latent forces God has implanted in every soul.—BROWNELL.

A Gift, My Dear
For Getting Slender

Excess fat means a serious blight to beauty, to health and vitality. Many a husband, if wives only knew, would give much to see it ended. Why not make a bargain?

The way is not hard, not unpleasant. Simply correct the cause, which often lies in a gland deficiency. Leading scientists, thirty years ago, discovered that cause for obesity. Their method of correction has now spread the world over. Physicians everywhere employ it.

Marmola prescription tablets embody that method. People have used them for twenty years—millions of boxes of them.

You see the results in every circle. Perhaps many of your friends can tell them. Excess fat, as you can see, is far less common than it was.

Abnormal exercise or diet is neither required nor advised, but moderation helps. The aim is to correct the cause—in faulty nutrition—in the best way known to modern science.

There are no secrets about Marmola. The complete formula appears in every package, also all known reasons for results. You will know the reasons for loss of fat, for the new vitality and health. So you will have no reason to suspect harm from results which seem so magical.

If you over-weigh, you owe to yourself a test of Marmola. Simply take four tablets daily and watch how the fat disappears. Not too rapidly, but in the right way, by correcting a deficiency.

Probably Marmola has proved itself worth its weight in gold to friends of yours. Learn now what it means to you. You cannot afford excess fat.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1.00 per box. Any druggist who is out will order from his jobber.

Bucs Beaten By Player Who Signed But Repudiated Pirate Contract—Doak Equals 1-to-0 Feat After 14 Years — Aldridge Blows Again — Pennock Suffers First Lifting.

Don Hurst

THE alleged ball park that harbors Philadelphia's chronic tailenders is as bad a jinx as ever to the Pirates this year, judging by the poor showing made by Donie Bush's men in losing the opener of the Quaker City series yesterday after holding a lead of two runs at the end of the sixth inning.

No matter how well they may do in other cities while on an Eastern trip, Baker's soup bowl generally spells trouble for the Bucs. Last season they beat the Phils nine times in 11 games here, but in Quakertown they lost more contests than at any other stop except St. Louis, having only six victories to show over the tailenders against five defeats and a tie.

It was the same in previous years. On one occasion Lee Meadows had an eight-run lead and yet lost his game.

FOLLOWING the good ball played by the Corsairs in winning four out of five at Brooklyn and Boston, local fans were hoping that the club would change its custom on the present visit to Philadelphia and show something like its true form, but five errors behind one of the two steady pitchers the team has had this year spoiled all chance of a win.

The defeat was all the more galling because the main factor in the winning four-run rally in the seventh was a home run by Don Hurst with one runner on the paths.

HURST was the property of the Pittsburgh club four years ago, and was actually signed to a Pirate contract, but like George Sisler, he repudiated his moral contract on the ground that he had taken the step while a minor. President Dreyfuss showed the evidence to Philly officials when the Quakers were here for a series last month, but declined to claim Hurst's services, saying that he did not wish to have on his club any player who would sign two contracts.

Bill Doak

BILL DOAK, former Knoxville citizen is a remarkable pitcher in several ways. They used to say that Bill was too frail to be able to last long or to stand much, yet here he is winning 1-to-0 games from first-place teams in spite of the fact that he is speeding along toward his 38th birthday anniversary.

And that's not mentioning the handicap that he was out of the game in 1925 or 1926, and that the dope says a player who remains out of harness is unlikely ever to regain his old stuff.

ANOTHER feature that makes Doak's major league career an outstanding one is recalled by Sid Keener, the veteran critic of St. Louis.

After being cast aside after a three-game tryout by the Reds in 1912, Bill joined the Cardinals in 1913, and Keener recollects that in 1914 he beat the Giants by a score of 1 to 0, New York being in first place at the time.

Last Thursday, another first-place club, Cincinnati was defeated by Doak by the same score, 1 to 0, Bill allowing only six hits and not walking a batter.

YOU can search the records for a long time without finding another instance of a pitcher, particularly one as "frail" as Doak was said to be, hurling 1-to-0 games against league leaders in 1914 and 1928—hurling the same brand of ball after 14 years. It is an amazing exhibition of lasting qualities. Just how prominently Doak stands out in that respect may be judged from the fact that of the more than 200 players who participated in pennant games for the eight National League clubs when Bill pitched that 1-to-0 game against the Giants in 1914, only nine remain with Doak in the big show. They are Luque, Rixey and Hargrave, of the Reds; Maranville and Alexander, of the Cards; Mann, of the Giants; Gonzales, of the Cubs; Carey, of the Robins, and Gerber, of the Redsox. The last named was a Pirate that season.

Mike Gazella.

WHEN Bill Hanna told Mike Gazella of the Yanks the news that Johnny Weldon, former Lafayette football star had been found dead from a bullet wound several days ago in Ohio, Gazella called attention to the tragic coincidence that a famous end on the same team with Weldon, Milt O'Connell, had been killed by an automobile only a few days before in New Jersey. Gazella played football at Lafayette with both men.

In the opinion of Hanna, Weldon was one of the best triple threats football ever had. He was as skillful a forward-passer as Friedman, of Michigan, and in addition he was a splendid punter, smart, fast and particularly good at bucking the line. He was stocky, weighed about 190 and there was mighty little the most versatile of backs can do that he couldn't do.

HERB PENNOCK, Yankee star, entering the box against Ted Blankenship of the Whitesox yesterday with a record of nine games won and only one lost,

George Christ, who succeeded Walter Hagen as professional at the Rochester (N. Y.) EIGHT WEST PA. STARS MAKE OPEN GRADE

By VERNON A. SWARTSFAGER.

WESTERN New York and Washington invaded the Pittsburgh district yesterday to shunt local aspirants to national open competition at Olympia Fields the latter part of this month into the background. While Western Pennsylvania copped a majority of the 14 places allotted to the field of 126, eight of them, in fact, New York and the District of Columbia romped off with the coveted first three places.

George Christ, professional at the Rochester Country Club, where Walter Hagen at one time hung up his hat, was the master of the day at the Oakmont Country Club yesterday. Oakmont's beautiful championship layout was almost invincible—it was heavy from the rains of last week, and long. In the morning the scores towered as high as skyscrapers, with a light wind blowing and Old Sol shining his prettiest, yet the afternoon round brought out only a few scores that resembled championship golf, with the course in better condition. And so it was that when Christ, a member of the last three-some to tee off, finally turned in a pair of 75s for 150 to lead the field by three good solid strokes, he was acclaimed as a mighty wielder of the hickory. He had led the first 18-hole round by two strokes.

Another out-of-towner who figured he would have a better chance of getting in the qualifying by utilizing the testy Oakmont layout (and did), was Alex A. (Sandy) Armour, brother to Tommy Armour, National Open champion, who is older by 10 years, and assistant pro at the Congressional Country Club, Washington. He made it in 153, setting a startling pace for the early finishers. The runner-up evidently wanted to prove that Oakmont held no horrors for any men of the Armour tribe.

And following closely on the trail of Sandy was a fellow District of Columbian, J. Munro Hunter of Indiana Springs, a pro, who is said to have averaged some mighty lengthy drives in his time. He had 156.

UNDERWOOD GETS 157

George Underwood of the Alcoma Country Club (the same good looking chap who played with Bobby Jones in the open at Oakmont last year) was the first Pittsburgher to come anywhere near the top of the field. The Alcoman was tied with Vincent Eldred of the Bartlett Country Club, Olean, N. Y., at 157.

Jack Gordon of the Transit Valley Country Club, East Amherst, N. Y., had a lone spot at 158, while the veteran Charley Rowe of Oakmont and Peter Walsh, Greenville Country Club's

BUSH'S IRE ROUSED AS PIRATES LOSE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.
Sun-Telegraph Staff Correspondent.

PHILADELPHIA, June 12.—Much displeased over the loose performance of his team yesterday, Manager Bush today decided to change his battle front in an effort to win the second game of the series with the Phillies. The boss of the Buccos will put Sparky Adams back at his second base post.

Bush would like to make a change at first base, but neither George Grantham nor Pete Scott is fit for action, so he will have to go along for a time with Paul Waner at the gateway.

Dick Bartell, then, is due to ride the bench.

There was nothing wrong with the fielding of the youngster, but apparently the pilot thinks that Adams will add to the punch of the team, and when one considers the various angles, Bush seems to be moving for the best in getting Sparky back in action. Kremer will pitch for Pittsburgh. Miller is the probable selection for the Phils.

Glenn Wright, Earl Smith and Carmen Hill made costly errors yesterday as the Quakers defeated the Pittsburghers, 6 to 4.

WRIGHT ERRS TWICE

Most of the home tallies were the result of the loose fielding. Wright had a bad day and the loose fielding seemed to be contagious, no less than five wobbles being charged against the Pirates.

The manager was deeply disappointed over the game in the Baker Bowl. While it is true that one of those Broad street homers made the Buccos take the defeat portion it also is a fact that the Pirates did not resemble a major league outfit.

Errors are a part of the sport and they will always be an important phase of the game, yet there are times when a club commits errors when the misplays make the team appear unusually poor. That was the kind of an atmosphere about the Pirates' play as they made their first stand of the season in Philadelphia.

The freebooters carried a two-run lead into the seventh inning. Wright uncorked a wild heave at the start of the inning and before it was over the Phillies amassed four markers. With two out in the inning and the Buccos still one in front, First Baseman Don Hurst drove one of Hill's offerings over the short fence for a two-run homer that spelled disaster to the Pittsburghers.

Hill and Jimmy Ring fought it out on the mound through seven rounds. Cy Williams batted for Ring in the seventh and Lefty Sweetland finished for the fearless Phillies. The young left-hander turned in a neat rescue job.

The small audience in attendance probably figured that the home team was set to lose another in the fourth round when the Pirates took the lead away from the Quakers by scoring three times. The cluster of counters gave the Bushwhackers a two-run advantage which wore well until the loose seventh.

The insertion of emergency men was resorted to in the two closing rounds, but the moves failed to put the Buccos back in the game. Eddie Mulligan batted for Smith in the beginning of the ninth. Eddie singled. Adams batted for Hill and fried a waiting game. He had three balls and two strikes when Sweetland came through the alley with a good pitch. Sparky met the ball well, but the sharp drive was picked up by the pitcher, who immediately put a double play into motion.

The double shuffle just about dropped the curtain, for the game ended in another minute.

ALL CLUBS EAGER TO SHAKE JINX

By TOM BIRKS.

THE County League will make an effort to swing into action this evening following one week of complete inactivity. Of course it is not certain that this evening's games are going to be played, but the rain cannot last for ever despite a forecast that the efforts of Jupiter Pluvius will last for 20 days.

BELLEVUE will have the Homewood-Brushton aggregation for opponents and seeing that Heinie Roll and his comrades walloped the offerings of Kinsey and Carl Stewart all over the North Boro in the last game at the High School field there should be a feeling among the Bellevue players to pay back.

BELTZHOOVER will invade Dormont. These clubs have played by far the best baseball in the County Loop so far, so there is a chance that another game worth while seeing will be flashed.

Leo Carroll will probably work for Dormont, with Beltzhoover using Rohleder.

IT seems that the merry race to sign up all the stars in the universe is still on in the County Loop. Just where all the money is coming from with poor collections and bad weather is a mystery to the average fan. But one of these fine days the bottom is going to drop out of these mad scrambles for high-priced stars, and then it will be too bad, for the average fan hates to watch baseball start to take an inferior turn with inferior players filling the lineups.

NOTES of the BOXERS

PHIL GOLDSTEIN left early this morning to return to New York, where a series of battles await him. He is making the trip by automobile with a friend.

Joe Glick, meets Stanislaus Laoyza and Tony Vaccarelli hooks up with Sammy Vogel in 10-round bouts at the Queensboro Stadium, New York, tonight.

Frank Monroe, local middleweight, boxes Mickey Fedor at Alliance, O., tonight.

Another attempt will be made Thursday evening to stage the thrice postponed amateur boxing show of the Twenty-seventh Ward A. C., on its grounds on the North Side. The original card will stand.

Nunci Villa, featherweight, and Tony Norton, flyweight, both have decided to turn pro under the management of Tommy Madden and are open for bouts. They are employed in the mailing room of the Sun-Tele and box on the side. Madden also manages Johnny Morton, Negro featherweight of Homestead. He may be addressed at 6600 Frankstown avenue or reached on the telephone at Montrose 8776.

Jules Beck is all set to go ahead with his first open-air show of the season, at the Duquesne Steel park, June 28. Phil Scello and Young Saylor will appear in the main bout.

golfer, were deadlocked at 159.

The happiest man outside of the medalist himself among the qualifiers was Freddy McLeod, player and teacher of note, who 20 years ago captured the National Open crown. He was tickled that he was enabled to qualify for the event again 20 years thereafter, being now of a tender age, nigh on 50. The Chevy Chase pro will make probably his last effort to regain the open title at Olympia Fields.

Wright McClure, the Chartiers Heights Country Club flash, was the only amateur of the entire field to place among the leading 14. He played excellent golf to tally a 161.

Peter O'Hara of the Westmoreland Country Club kept up his consistent scoring for a 162, while Emil F. (Dutch) Loeffler, Oakmont's noted greenkeeper, and Fred Brand of Allegheny, president of the Tri-State Professional Golfers' Association, tied at 163.

Horace Brand, brother to Fred, of the Uniontown Country Club was the last man to get under the wire. Horace took 164.

A number of other district golfers "knocked at the door," but it refused to open. Pete Manning, assistant pro at Shannopin; Dave McKay of the Pittsburgh Field Club, and Ray L. Babcock, one of Oakmont's most respected amateurs, deadlocked at 165. James A. Fownes of Oakmont, and Rador Jewett Buckeye state pro, were tied at 166.

Charley Manning of Shannopin, William C. Fownes, Jr., of Oakmont, despite his 78 in the afternoon; Kenneth Stewart of Latrobe and John B. Stevens of Princeton, scored 167.

KAUFFMANN FAILS

Carl F. Kauffmann, of Schenley Park, National public links champion, couldn't get going at all and took an 88 and an 85 for 173.

One look over the scores and we see several good golfers who played poorly in the morning and fine in the afternoon. H. C. Fownes II of Oakmont, who once set a course mark of 67 there, took 90 in the morning and a 78 in the afternoon for 168. W. C. Fownes, Jr., former U. S. G. A. prexy, mixed an 89 with a 78.

The afternoon round put several of the qualifiers in the winning group. When it is realized that of the field of 126 only 22 players were under 85 for the first 18 holes, one can appreciate the difference in the game in the afternoon. Only five broke 80 in the morning, while eight went under in the afternoon.

As for the qualifiers, Medalist Christ was out in 38 and back in 37 in his first round, and the figures read the same way in the second. He had a 6 and a 7 going out in the morning, and then picked up a few strokes, but played rather consistent golf throughout the afternoon round.

Armour, smashing a terrific tee shot, had 41 and 36 for his morning 77, and 35 and 38 for his afternoon 76. He did not play a single hole over 5. Some golf!

Hunter scored 42-39—81 in the first and 35-40—75 on his second. He had three 6s in a row on the tenth, eleventh and twelfth in the afternoon, and started with two 6s in the morning, getting another on the seventh and still another on the ninth. He played phenomenal golf on the other holes to make up for lost ground.

George Underwood started with a 42, came back in 39 for an 81, smashed out a 40 starting his last round and finished with a 36 for a 76 and 157. Six 6s dotted his morning round, and only one his afternoon trek.

Vince Eldred took a 6 on his way to a 37 out, and another coming in for a 41 to total 80, while he neared par going out in the p. m. for a 39, coming home in 40 with a pair of 6s chalked up, getting a 77 and total of 157 over all.

Gordon played rather steadily, scoring 42-39-81-38-38-77—158.

Charley Rowe got off to a fine start, being out in 39, but broke down a bit with three 6s coming in for a 42 and 81. Except for a 7 on the fourth he was going great on his outward trip in the afternoon for a 40, steaming home in 38 for a 78 and 159.

WALSH PLAYS WELL

Peter Walsh played his usual consistent game, being out in 40 and back in 39 for a 79 in the morning, and out in 39 and back in 41, for an 80 and 159 total in the afternoon.

Fred McLeod also was steady throughout, having 40 and 41 in the morning and 41 and 39 in the afternoon. All told, he registered three 6s. Wright McClure, who also had 161, was steady until the homecoming nine when he took a few extra ones, being out in 40 in the morning and 39 in the afternoon and in—39 in the morning and—43, with three 6s, in the afternoon.

It was 40-43—83 and 39-40—79 for Peter O'Hara. He took one 6 on each nine in the morning, but never faltered for more than 5 in the afternoon.

Dutch Loeffler had four scattered 6s as he scored his 42 and 39 on his first round and 42 out and 40 back on his second.

The Brothers Brand, Fred and Horace, played pretty close to each other. The Alleghenian had a rather poor get-away, with his 47 out, finding trouble at the offset with a 7 on the first hole, which was followed by three 6s before the inward journey began. He then came home in 40 for an 87 with a couple more 6s scattered around. Then he burned up the course with a 37 out, getting 3s on six, seven and eight, and came in in 39 with a 6 on 15.

Horace played much better in the morning than in the afternoon breezing through with a 40 and 38 for a 78 on his first try and marking up a 44 out, with a 6 and beau coup 5s on the first nine, after lunch. Four 6s and a few 4s finally brought him home with a 42 for 164—just enough to squeeze through.

The Oakmont layout was in splendid condition.

SPEED RECORD HOLDER HELD FOR ABANDONMENT

DETROIT, June 12.—(AP.)—Ray Keech, of Philadelphia, holder of the world's straightaway automobile racing record, has been arrested here on information from Atlantic City, N. J., charging him with abandonment of a minor child.

The warrant was issued on the complaint of a Miss Olivello, who police said recently instituted a $150,000 breach of promise suit against the driver in Atlantic City.

Keech announced he would fight extradition to New Jersey, and was released without bond. He will be given a preliminary hearing in court here today.

U. S. BOOTERS LOSE

LODZ, Poland, June 12.—(AP.)—A picked local squad defeated the United States Olympic soccer team, 6 to 0, in an exhibition match here yesterday. The Americans played a sluggish game, evidently tired out from the extensive traveling of the past two weeks.

Famous star selects OLD GOLD
"One cigarette of the four I smoked in the blindfold test was like shooting a scene successfully after a whole series of failures. It just 'clicked' and I named it as my choice. It was OLD GOLD. Which clears up a mystery, for the supply of OLD GOLDS in my Beverly Hills home is constantly being depleted. It seems that Strongheart and Rin-tin-tin are the only motion picture stars who don't smoke them."
Charlie Chaplin

MR. CHAPLIN was asked to smoke each of the four leading brands, clearing his taste with coffee between smokes. Only one question was asked: "Which one do you like the best?"

Made from the heart-leaves of the tobacco plant
How does OLD GOLD do it?
What's the secret of OLD GOLD'S winning charm? The answer is very simple. Three types of leaves grow on the tobacco plant . . . coarse, heavy top-leaves, irritating to the throat . . . withered ground-leaves, without taste or aroma . . . and the heart-leaves, rich in cool and fragrant smoking qualities. These golden-ripe heart-leaves give OLD GOLDS their honey-like smoothness. That's why so many people choose them. And that's why you too can pick them . . . even in the dark.

Brignolia Handed Win

By HARRY KECK,
Sun-Telegraph Sports Editor.

RUSTY from their long lay-off, the officials did a lot of tall and fancy guessing at the boxing show at Cycler Park, McKeesport, last night, which ushered in the outdoor mitt season in the Pittsburgh district, and, as a result, three of the real winners were short-changed.

Joey LaGrey of Johnstown won from here to the Flood City and back again over Larry Brignolia of Erie in the 10-round windup, but both judges and the referee agreed on Brignolia as the winner. LaGrey made Brignolia look like a selling plater as he piled up a big lead in the first seven rounds and Larry didn't get into the fight until Joey, with the thing sewed up, coasted through the last three sessions, doing a lot of running and tincanning and playing it safe. However, it seems that what fighter does in the early rounds is forgotten when his opponent staggers through with a closing rally, and so Brignolia goes into the records as the winner.

LaGrey was too smart for Brignolia, starting off by lambasting him with both fists and moving in to close quarters and keeping the long-armed Brignolia from fighting back whenever he showed such an inclination.

He outgeneral Larry from bell to bell and three times pulled a neat trick of jerking his head under the top rope, outside the ring, to keep Brignolia from hitting him in tight quarters. Then, when he figured he couldn't lose, he slowed down and went on the receiving end of what he couldn't avoid and made little attempt to fight back, with the result that he blew a decision that was rightly his. Brignolia, scaling 144¾ pounds, had an edge of one-quarter pound.

Ray Fay of Charleroi, 175½ pounds forced the fighting almost constantly in the six-round semi-final with Dick Gibbons of McKeesport, who weighed 190 pounds and towered over him in height and reach, but at the finish the judges disagreed, one voting for Fay and the other for Gibbons, and it required the decision of the referee to prevent a mistake in this verdict, Fay getting the ticket of the third man. Gibbons bled badly from his nose almost throughout and Fay had his right eye cut in the last round. A right to the jaw floored Fay hard in the fifth round, but he was up without a count.

The first two decisions also were off-color, Allen Beatty, Negro of McKeesport, handed Johnny King, veteran of Fayette City, a drubbing for four rounds in the second melee, almost putting him away in fourth session, and then let up and was slightly outfought by King in the last two rounds. The judges disagreed and the referee ruled it a draw. King weighed 147½ pounds and Beatty 148¼.

Another split vote, with the referee calling it a draw, deprived Joe Belmont of Braddock, 148¼, of a second victory over Joe Louder of Arlington avenue, 149, in the six-round opener. Louder did not seem to be able to get going until the last round, the only one he won, and Belmont punished him badly about the head and body with his solid wallops.

The judges were Jock Simco and Jim McLaughlin. Al Grayber refereed all of the bouts. The weather was ideal and Promoter McGirr drew a good-sized crowd.

HEENEY OPENS CAMP ON JERSEY FARM

By SID MERCER.

NEW YORK, June 12.—(INS.)—The address of Thomas Heeney from now until July 26 is Fairhaven, New Jersey, care of the Rumson Farm.

The heavyweight challenger settled down in that beautiful spot and probably will do his first boxing next Thursday when Commodore Tex Rickard will sail his yacht the Maxine down the bay from New York and up the Shrewsbury River to the Rumson Farm landing.

Heeney is well pleased with his quarters, he has ideal surroundings and facilities for both outdoor and indoor boxing. Tom went on the road early this morning for the first time to get acquainted with his surroundings.

Charles Harvey, one of the Australian's managers, is incensed over the charge that Heeney is nothing but a "sitting" challenger and that Tom hasn't done any real work so far. These charges are made by an expert who insists Tunney is always on his feet and runs every day.

"That's a fine gag for any friend of Tunney to pull on Heeney," Harvey roared. "Why that Tunney has been sitting ever since the seventh round in Chicago last fall. What was he doing while Tom was training and fighting all last winter? I'll tell you. He was just sitting around with those millionaires at Miami Beach. And what is he doing now? He's sitting around with a stone bruise on his heel and a book in his hand."

NEW YORK, June 12.—A Jack Dempsey - Gene Tunney bout in Canada in September is the latest rumor being circulated today by those who refuse to believe that the former champion is serious in his declaration of retirement. The rumor was born last evening when Tex Rickard held a conference with an official of the National Boxing Association, which controls the fight game in the Dominion.

SPORT COMMENT

by JAMES J. LONG

not only failed to equal the victory record of George Pipgras and Sammy Gray, the first two major league pitchers to win 10 games this year, but his string of full games pitched was interrupted. Had he gone the route he would have equaled Larry Benton's mark of having pitchd 11 complete games this year and never having been lifted, but he was lifted for the first time in 1928 when Henry Johnson was sent in to relieve him.

THE Yankees kept out of double figures in the "Lost" column for exactly two months before they suffered their tenth defeat yesterday.

The victory of the Whitesox also marked only the second time this season that the Yankees have been beaten twice in succession.

VIC ALDRIDGE yesterday gave another exhibition that enabled Pittsburgh fans to get a few more laughs out of that February trade for Burleigh Grimes. Vic led the Reds 5 to 2 going into the ninth, but blew up and had to be lifted, the game slipping away when the Cincinnati team scored seven runs in the final round. Aldridge has got away to a lead in his last three games and the best he got in any one of them was a six-inning tie.

Defeat to Make Chisox Change Uniforms

CHICAGO, June 12.—(AP.)—If the White Sox perform the miracle of sweeping the Yankee series and then continue their winning streak, the fans probably will see some unkempt uniforms.

Sunday, the White Sox donned their new uniforms—white with black stripes. They won. Yesterday, they won in the same attire.

"Now we won't be able to send those suits to the laundry until they lose a game or two," remarked a club official.

Tris Speaker—Warmed the bench.

America's Biggest Airport. Is Planned by Baltimore.

By B. C. Forbes

BALTIMORE, Md., June 12.

BALTIMORE has planned the greatest airport in America—not merely an air field, but an airport to be created alongside the deep water of Baltimore's seaport. A large part of the vast area mapped out now lies under water. The plan is to fill this in. The airport would include many acres of land immediately adjacent to the bay front. Abundant facilities lie at hand for the erection of industrial plants alongside the wide boundaries of the airport.

The program calls for the expenditure of millions, and will take several years to complete. The leading citizens are eager, however, to have all governmental and other red tape cleared away and a start made so that Baltimore may be a leader, airport-wise. The city already, of course, has its air field.

THE ambitious airport program typifies the new spirit which has germinated in Baltimore after what strikes an outsider as a long period not characterized as the aggressiveness signally exercised by Baltimoreans of earlier days. The city has been growing. Industrially, its growth since 1909 has been exceeded by only two among the 10 leading cities in the country, namely, Detroit and Cleveland, beneficiaries of the young automobile industry.

But, somehow, Baltimore this century has not matched its pioneering, go-getting record of last century. Baltimore, for example, figured prominently in the birth of railroading in America. It figured prominently in the birth of telegraphy. It figured prominently as the cradle of electric street cars. It early played a notable part in the copper industry.

The pioneers of last century developed Baltimore to a tremendously important standardizing and distributing center. Its wholesale houses became widely famous. It shipped enormous quantities of goods by land and by water, inland and overseas.

THE sturdy pioneers of those days drew great wealth to Baltimore. Wealth, as often happens, stimulated the pursuit of culture—the unparalleled wealth of America since the war has led and is leading to the transfer of many of the choicest art objects of Europe to our own land. Having become rich, many Baltimoreans became interested in the finer things of life. Ditto second generation individuals and families.

While wealth stimulates culture, it often dulls the edge of industry. The world's pioneers usually have been poor. Those having little or nothing to lose, cheerfully undertake risks. They brave hazards in the hope of generous financial rewards. John D. Rockefeller took all sorts of chances in his younger days, but wealth brought conservatism.

Similarly, Baltimore's wealth brought conservatism. More money went into safe investments; a lessened proportion was devoted to speculation—the speculation always attendant upon pioneering.

BALTIMORE thus became more noted for culture, for music, for art, for poetry, for refinement, for finer living than for industrial or commercial initiative and daring. It cultivated culture more than it cultivated money making. Its society became more noted than its material achievements.

As new industries were born, Baltimore played no very conspicuous part in cradling or developing them. Had the automobile industry been born two or three generations ago, Baltimore probably would have become an important motor manufacturing city. It has not become conspicuously an automobile center nor an electric manufacturing center nor a radio center nor a rayon center nor an aircraft center.

I HAVE already seen enough to convince me, however, that Baltimore is now undergoing rebirth.

STOCKS PLUNGE DOWN AFTER RALLY

NEW YORK, June 12.—(A.P.)—The stock market plunged downward again today after an early rally staged by professional traders failed to attract outside buying power. Early gains of 1 to 6 points were wiped out, and a number of high priced specialties broke 5 to 15 points below yesterday's final quotations. Trading showed a marked expansion in volume. The 2,000,000-share mark being crossed before the end of the third hour.

Another violent break of more than 35 points in Bancitaly Corporation common stock on the New York Curb Market started the selling movement. There was little in the day's business news to influence the price movement. Call money held firm at 6 per cent but a slightly easier undertone was apparent in time money market. Many brokers continued to blame the decline on "political uncertainties."

Radio was the hardest hit, breaking from an early high of 196¼ to 176, or 48 points below the year's high. General Motors slumped from 183⅛ to 178⅛, as compared with a recent high of 210. Wright aeronautical, selling "ex-rights," dropped from 159 to 142¼ and American International from 102¾ to 93. Rossia Insurance, Cash Threshing, American Bank Note and Abraham & Straus sold down 4 to 6 points.

New low records for the year, or longer, were registered by Baltimore & Ohio, Pennsylvania, Kansas City Southern, Chesapeake Corporation, Crucible Steel, Republic Steel, May Department Stores, Liggett & Myers B and Western Union.

The closing was weak. Extension of the liquidating movement in the final hour brought many additional shares within the range of those selling from 5 to 10 points under their previous close. Among the outstanding transactions, was a block of 10,000 shares of General Motors at 175. Other issues to feel the pressure included International Harvester, Dupont, Greene Cananea Copper, Adams Express, Electric Auto-Lite, American Express and International Combustion Engineering. Total sales approximated 4,000,000 shares.

PRICES SAG IN FINAL HOUR

Stocks maintained a steady tone on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange in the early dealings today, with prices holding close to the levels reached in the final dealings last night.

The pressure which forced Lone Star Gas back to 50 near the close Monday was less in evidence this morning and the stock was well supported on offerings around that figure in the forenoon session today. The recession was attributed to general market conditions wherein stocks of all classes have been liquidated to strengthen cash balances and put accounts in shape to weather further reactionary markets such as have been witnessed for the past 10 days or so. The Arkansas Gas issue have managed to hold well in the recent selling with the preferred holding close to the best level since listing and the common averaging about a point lower than the top reached on the spurt a short time ago.

Westinghouse Air Brake sold here at 44, a new low for several months, with the price in New York displaying a firmer tone than was noted yesterday when this stock, along with others on the "big board," fell away in the face of the heaviest selling movement since the wild bull market entered its most recent phase early last March.

The newly listed Joseph Horne Co. common came into the market at 39, off a point from the last previous sale in the outside market and down more than 11 points from the high established just after the shares were offered last month. There has been no explanation of the decline other than that demand has been met and buyers are not at present showing any interest in the stocks.

Carnegie Metals fell back two points or so from Monday's last price but did not appear to be under special pressure.

The industrial department generally was lower but there were few signs of more than sympathetic heaviness resulting from the break in the New York market. Central Ohio Steel Products was firm, reflecting accumulation by traders anticipating a dividend announcement sometime this month.

Last hour dealings were at lowering levels with early prices being shaded from 1 to 2 points. Lone Star dipped under 50 for the first time in several weeks, Carnegie sold around 20 and Standard Sanitary was down to 34, comparing with the low since listing of 33.

ROUND TABLE of BUSINESS

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE National Fire Proofing Company is operating at over 90 per cent of capacity. All of the plants are in operation except one. The new year was started with operations at a low rate but production has been steadily built up since then. Current sales volume is good, but there is some slight hesitancy due to the many uncertain factors in the business situation. Unfilled orders on the books and business expected over the next few months indicate that production will be maintained at its present rate until the latter part of September.

A fairly good volume of building activity is under way in most parts of the country. Chicago building is especially active. Construction work in New York City is also extensive. The National Fireproofing Company makes hollow title and various special tile products for building. A large share of the company's output is sold for the construction of farm buildings. The farmers are taking very satisfactory tonnages of this material and appear to be in good financial condition.

Although sales volume is large the margin of profit remains narrow. In many localities small producers have resorted to price cutting in order to liquidate inventories. This has kept National Fireproofing from showing the profits which should be expected from the present volume of shipments.

The failure of earnings to increase this year makes it unlikely that preferred dividends will be resumed for some time. Preferred dividend requirements were not earned either in 1927 or 1926, which made it advisable for directors to pass the dividend last December. In 1927 net income after deducting depreciation, depletion and interest was $179,414, which was equivalent to $1.13 a share on the 158,010 shares of 7 per cent preferred stock of $50 par value. In the previous year $519 865 or $3.29 a share on the preferred stock was earned.

The company is in strong financial condition as a result of the sale last year of $3,000,000 of 20-year 5½% debentures. This permitted the refunding of notes payable and of the old bonded debt. At the close of 1927 current assets of $3,313,322 were over five times current liabilities.

NATIONAL FIREPROOFING has physical properties and equipment valued at $11,553,546. If reserves for depreciation, etc., are deducted this leaves a net value of these properties of $8,967,390. The balance sheet shows a rather large provision for good will of $4,461,300 out of total assets of $20,246,714. Book value of good will represents the same amount as the par value of the common stock outstanding. The company had a surplus of $1,655,690 at the end of 1927, which was somewhat more than one-third of the value placed on good will.

THE Leonard Oil Development Company, a Pittsburgh organization, has made a strike on its 4,000-acre property in the Oregon Basin Field at Cody, Wyo. The company's subsidiary, the Lenco Petroleum Company, has brought in Lyle well No. 1 with an initial production of 2,000 barrels a day. Rosseau well No. 1 is nearing the sand and two other wells on the property are being drilled.

The Illinois Pipe Line Company has completed an eight-inch line from the field to the loading rack at Cody, Wyo., and is now building a new eight-inch line from the field to its refinery at Greybull, a distance of 80 miles. The pipe lines should be able to handle all of the production of the field. The discovery well in the field was brought in recently by the Ohio Oil Company.

A factor which is tending to improve conditions in the window glass industry is the present low rate of production. This is enabling factories to keep stocks down to small amounts during the summer. Some plants are working against actual orders and a few producers who had large stocks early in the year find present business heavy enough to reduce their inventories. Small stocks of glass will make it easier for glass manufacturers to keep prices in a firm condition.

Your present car has 2 values

One is its value in dollars and cents—as an allowance on the price of a new car.

The other value is measured by the happiness of your family.

If you keep your present car when you buy your new car—instead of trading it in—both your needs and theirs are provided for. They will not be isolated when business requires you to drive away in the morning.

Two-car ownership has come fast in America—300,000 two-car families in 1920; 3,000,000 today. The rate of increase will be even greater in the future, for the benefits are so great. The second car keeps mothers and children together, makes household purchasing more economical, enlarges in every way the field of opportunity.

Keep your present car when you buy your new General Motors car. The GMAC Plan of payments makes this convenient to do.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Stocks Forced Lower.

The market was subjected to a rather severe buffeting again this morning, but weathered the storm admirably in the early session. Around mid-day stocks had worked up moderately from the early lows and clung doggedly to the better levels. Sentiment was helped by a rumor that a prominent financier had prepared a statement on brokers' loans in which he pointed out that conditions of the stock market credit were not as dangerous as some interests supposed them to be. The statement, according to the Street gossip, will appear in tomorrow morning's papers. An announcement of that tenor from the proper source would probably have a beneficial effect on the market generally, but traders were doubtful that its influence would be much more than to steady the list. Incidentally, there was information in the Street today that General Motors had seen its worst on the break and was in line for another run up similar to the many witnessed during the past three months. It was pointed out that Motors met the strongest kind of support at 180, and that some of the bear sellers around that level will be treated to a squeeze. However, after the announcement of the Pennsylvania delegation's declaration for Hoover, a new flood of stock hit the market and the leaders took another nose dive, led by Radio, which up to today had withstood all efforts to force it back.

Bancitaly Slides Again.

Bancitaly cracked wide open again today after holding fairly steady up to early afternoon. Yesterday the stock broke 63 points to 137. Today it held around 140 up to early afternoon, when another flood of selling forced it down in the same hysterical manner noted in the collapse yesterday. The sensational decline which carried the stock down more than 100 points from its price of a few weeks ago was attributed to forced selling for speculative accounts unable to meet the heavy margin calls of the brokers and banks. The company is an investment corporation dominated by A. P. Giannini, powerful banking figure of the Pacific Coast. Mr. Giannini is at present in Italy, but efforts to reach him yesterday were unavailing. Attendants told reporters he was ill.

Margin Calls.

Margin calls sent out by the brokers on general accounts were understood to have met good response from clients who were prepared for just such situation as arose the past week. In some cases, of course, stocks had been liquidated, especially in the accounts of the smaller traders, but the general assumption was that the larger accounts were strengthened by additions of cash. This accounted to a measurable extent for the manner in which the market withstood the early offerings. Call money opened at 6 per cent as against 5½ for renewals yesterday.

Deficit after common dividends was $413,432, against surplus of $991,996 for the year ended December 31, 1926. The previous report was for the year ended December 31, 1926, and showed net income of $1,775,429 or $31.28 a share on 43,412 common shares then outstanding.

Royal Dutch-Shell group maintained its position as the world's largest producer of crude oil last year. Yield from nine countries totaled 125,873,078 barrels, 10 per cent of world's yield last year. This was the largest production on record, representing an average of 344,857 barrels daily, and was 54 per cent larger than world-wide production of Standard Oil of New Jersey, second largest producer.

Bears Having Field Day.

One of the most competent financial observers in Wall Street comments on immediate stock market conditions as follows: "The bears have had the best of it lately because the news has been all their way. A 7 per cent call rate and time money at the highest level in seven years, the Republican convention, unfavorable steel tonnage figures and the most bearish statement ever issued by the Federal Reserve Board added a heavy load to the bulls' burden and something had to give. How far the reaction will go no one knows. But one thing is certain, things can be overdone on the short side just as easily as they can be overdone on the long side. The conservative element is not adverse to a readjustment downward, but no one a crash in the market that might kill prosa crash in the market that migh kill prosperity by undermining the confidence of the people. Every stock market crash since the opening of the exchange has been either preceded or followed by waning prosperity. Corrective measures to stem the tide of speculation may have been necessary, but the danger lies in the possibility of carrying corrective measures too far."

Liquidation Beneficial.

That the recent liquidation will prove beneficial to the market in the long run is the confident opinion of conservative observers. It is maintained that the previous advance had been too rapid and naturally had attracted a weak long outside following. This has been steadily eliminated in the past week or ten days, but many believe a further reduction of weak long holdings will be necessary before the market can stage any attractive upturn on improved technical conditions.

Consolidated Italian Bank.

Subscriptions and pledges for stock in the new Consolidated Italian Bank of Pittsburgh have been received in excess of the $650,000 which is to represent the initial capital of $500,000 and surplus of $150,000, it was announced by the organization committee. It was stated that cash subscriptions paid in at this time amount to $327,530, which amount is on deposit in local banks. The Consolidated Italian Bank project was launched a few weeks ago by a committee of prominent Italian business and professional men with the object of establishing a powerful independent Italian bank to be located in the downtown district. The committee has received subscriptions from 738 Italian merchants and professional men who have pledged themselves for considerably more than the amount stated as capital and surplus, according to the statement. W. P. Ortale is chairman and G. A. Pivtroito is vice chairman of the organization committee.

Additional Stage and Screen News

NORMA SHEARER STAR ON PENN SCREEN

A Hal Roach comedy is a supplemental offering in the Penn this week and it's about the best thing on the bill, and this is said with all due respect to a screen drama, "The Actress," starring Norma Shearer. The comedy has the novelty element. "The Actress" recalls "Trelawney of the Wells" and is a story of love, bad temper and snowstorms three-quarters of a century ago, with melodramatic trimmings. No opportunity is overlooked for quaint costuming and the photography is excellent.

Teddy Joyce has several teams of earnest workers in his stage presentation, including Billie Gerber, clever boy impersonator; Ruth Denice, singer; the Rio Brothers, Luley, Mealey and Croker and others. Don Albert leads the Penn orchestra in a fine program of operatic selections. Dick Leibert has a novel organ number that develops the vocal ability of the audience.

SHERIDAN FEATURE IS ARMLESS GOLFER

Thomas McAuliff, armless golfer, assisted by C. McLane Savage, gave an unusual exhibition as the vaudeville feature in the Sheridan Square yesterday. Dancing was the foundation of the act of Fridkin and Rhoda and their aids, in "Grace, Color and Music." Marshall Montgomery was assisted by Lucille DeHaven in a novel act of ventriloquism, "At Four Bells." Hal Chamberlain and Vivian Earle offered comedy and songs. DeBee and Hudson in musical specialty and Victor McLaglen, with June Collyer, in "Hangman's House," and other screen numbers completed the bill.

SPECHT'S ORCHESTRA IN NEW WILLOWS

The feature attraction this week in the New Willows, Oakmont, is Paul Specht's orchestra. In addition to the orchestra a four-act vaudeville bill is presented, featuring Miss Patti, songstress.

FEATURE IN STANLEY UNDERWORLD PICTURE

After shivering through "The Drag Net," screen drama of underworld life with George Bancroft in the Stanley, it is consoling to think that the Federal grand jury has not yet been discharged. It is the kind of play that frightens as well as thrills, and although all ends happily and apparently peacefully, several sure-shooting gunmen are left at large when the end comes and it seems as if they might be in the flesh and lurking outside the theater. All of which means that the action and the acting are realistic. Evelyn Brent and William Powell afford first-class support to the star. "In Dutch" is the title of the stage presentation and in line with this the dancers and singers are costumed in Holland suits and wooden shoes. Phil Spitalny and his orchestra have some brand new jazz. Some fair specialties are offered.

NEWSPAPER FILM AND M'LAGLEN IN GRAND

In addition to the feature photoplay, "Hangman's House," the Grand this week is offering, as an added stellar attraction, "The Making of a Newspaper," a film produced by the International Newsreel. Built on incidents that will be easily identified by the public as "big stories," its two reels are charged with interest throughout. "Hangman's House" is based on Don Byrne's novel. The story has to do with an old Irish chief justice who insists his one daughter shall marry a man whom she dislikes. The leading role is portrayed by Victor McLaglen. There is an air of mystery throughout. A funny Our Gang comedy is on the bill.

Mussolini—His Life Story

Italy's greatness, specialized for the good of the nation, and constituting a directing class. We have enough, and more than enough, politicians. Great technical aristocracies have to be reared and trained; they are not born ready-made."

Heads Syndical

The term "dictator" does not exactly describe Mussolini, for there are many kinds of dictatorship. Nor does it suffice to say that he is Premier, Minister of Foreign Affairs, of War, of the Navy and of Aviation. He is also at the head of the syndical organization, and this is perhaps what is of the most importance.

The present Italian constitution sufficed to invest him, through royal appointment, with the command of the land, naval and air forces, and with the direction of internal and foreign affairs, but only the new syndical organization could give him complete control over the nation's economic and social life.

Fascism, which in its initial stage was simply a dictatorship of force, partly supported by the collaboration of the vanquished parties, has recently assumed a specific character, which justifies its uncompromising attitude and takes the undoubtedly original form of a dictatorship of organization.

At no time was a government ever based upon a broader foundation. The creation of the Department of Corporations is a new starting point in Italian political life. The fact that it has boldly faced and successfully solved one of the most difficult problems of contemporary society will ever be one of the chief merits of the Fascist dictatorship. Only through Fascism have all the producing classes of Italy become intregal parts of the State, with economic representation replacing the political representation of the democratic-liberal doctrine.

Class Harmony

"We have buried the old, democratic, liberal, agnostic, paralytic Italian state," said Mussolini in one of his speeches, "the state which, in homage to what it chose to call its 'immortal' principles, permitted class warfare to be turned into a social catastrophe for the entire nation. We have replaced this antiquated concept of the state with the co-operative Fascist state, which unites, harmonizes and controls the interests of all classes, extending equal recognition and protection to all. It is perfectly absurd to accuse the Fascist regime of being against the people of the laboring classes. The truth is that only since 1922 can it be said that the people themselves really rule this nation. Previous to that time, we had a government of cliques, factions and parasites.

"Today we impose our discipline upon the nation, and the people accept it. Why? Because they feel, know, and understand that this discipline does not arise from my own personal whims, but from the long-felt needs of the country. Sometimes I must act like a surgeon, because operations are at times indispensable, but when the patient recovers he clasps the surgeon's hand and kisses the instruments that have restored him to health."

The foes of the regime bewail the lack of liberty. "If there is any man in Italy who has no liberty, that man is myself," replies Mussolini, "but I accept my servitude as the highest reward that can be offered me. The word 'liberty' has been replaced by the words 'order,' 'hierarchy' and 'discipline,' which are today the only words that exert a real life-and-death fascination upon the fierce, restless, bold masses of our younger generations."

When he writes that "Fascism has trampled, and if necessary will trample again upon the more or less decomposed corpse of the goddess Liberty," he explains his meaning by further stating that he denies liberty "if liberty consists in the right to perturb the life of the nation and show visible contempt for the symbols of patriotism and religion."

No Compromises

A dictator does not and cannot compromise. Mussolini stands today for a policy that is absolutely, theoretically and practically uncompromising. "All power to all Fascism," is his motto. "Today Fascism is a party, an army, a corporation. It must yet become something more; a mode of life. There must be Italians of Fascism with unmistakable characteristics, just as there have been Italians of the Renaissance and Italians of the Roman Empire. Only by creating a mode of life shall we be enabled to write indelible pages in history as well as in the daily press.

"This mode of life is made up of courage, boldness, love of danger, repugnance for sedentary life and pacifism, frankness, freedom from diplomatic and political intrigue, the pride of being Italians, the discipline of work and respect for authority. De Bernardi, Nobile and De Pinedo are samples of this new type of Italian, whose slogan is, 'to make of one's whole life one's whole masterpiece.'"

"To live dangerously," is Mussolini's favorite motto, of which he wants himself to be the living, fearless, instructive exponent. After the latest attempt upon his life, he ordered his Fascisti:

"If I advance, follow me; if I retreat, kill me; if I fall, avenge me!"

Such is the fascinating character of this dictator and his power of attraction and dominion over forty million Italians.

Fascism is an aristocratic ideal, a spiritual renewal without which no material, economic or political reconstruction would have been possible.

Old Ideals Returned

The Italian manhood, composed of the mature generations that learned to temper their former skepticism in sorrow and the younger one that sought their inspiration at the fount of war, has seen the rebirth of the old Roman ideals.

The former exile and conspirator, the faithful depositary of the sacrifice of millions of the dead and the daring standard-bearer of the will of millions of the living, is finally at the helf of the state. While the Rome of the money-changers writhes in agony under the lash of his condemnation he lives in the Rome of the past and the future, the Rome that is eternal and unchanging.

He lives in and for the Rome that during a century and a half of unrelenting warfare subdued the hardy cohorts of the ancestors of the present-day Italians, and with them, after she had enrolled them under her standards, took possession of the entire world in less than a century. He lives in and for the Rome that later, bearing the Gospel of Christ, wandered anew through the world on her mission of unification. He lives in and for the Rome that again spread her new-found culture over the world when the glorious period of the Renaissance created civilization out of medieval barbarism and unified the earth for the third time.

In Rome, he feels all of the terrific responsibility of his destiny, which is the destiny of a people oppressed by the burden of its glory and longing to march forth once more on its mission of wisdom and valor.

Under the vigilant gaze of this new leader, the ancient rebels bow their heads and in unremitting toil find again the Fatherland that they had lost in the fearful disorder of a day. The inflexible will of the man who emerged from the trenches where the Italian people left the flower of their youth, has already given them, and the entire Italian people with them, the ancient Roman Fatherland.

Holds Italy's Destinies

In his hands are the destinies of Italy, perhaps of Europe.

No one, not even the most irreconcilable of his foes, can deny today the existence of a new, youthful Italian spirit, the work of Mussolini, who led a revolution that is without parallel in history because it was bloodless.

This man's name is on everyone's lips today. The world follows his doings with curiosity, with admiration, sometimes with fear.

They call him Caesar, Napoleon, Cromwell, Robespierre, but he cares little; the son of a blacksmith, intent upon the work of restoring to Italy the form, substance and spirit that will again make her great and mighty among the nations, he is satisfied with being, for the present, simply Benito Mussolini.

Real Effort Being Made Here to Curb Rum Ring

Disclosures of the activities of Pittsburgh's liquor ring in the federal grand jury presentment are truly sensational.

Conditions in this district, however, are probably no worse than in other big American cities. The prohibition law is flouted generally in the larger municipalities.

The difference between Pittsburgh and these other cities is that here we have the unusual spectacle of a federal district attorney who is making an honest and earnest effort to enforce the law.

The public will heartily support any genuine and sincere attempt at law enforcement. It asks only that justice be swift and sure—that the many who have been indicted be brought speedily to the bar of justice where their innocence or guilt may be established.

Relation of Bond Issue To Pittsburgh's Progress

Citizens of Allegheny county exhibit a lively and healthy interest in the proposed $43,680,000 bond issue to be voted on June 26. Benefits to follow the bridge and road improvements as well as the proposed air-port and Town Hall have been pointed out in detail. There seems to be a pretty general agreement that the bond issue should be passed.

But there is a larger and more important reason for supporting the issue. Pittsburgh's prosperity during the next decade should be stimulated tremendously by its passage. The obvious effects of spending over $43,000,000 will be of less importance than the other improvements they will cause.

George H. Snyder, whose "Round Table of Business" is a recent addition to The Sun-Telegraph's features, pointed out this fact effectively the other day. He said:

"All great municipal improvements stimulate private building. Better streets, new bridges, new public buildings, enhance the value of property around them. The improvements bring people into localities which they did not frequent before. New buildings are necessary to earn incomes in proportion to the higher property values.

"The Michigan Boulevard Bridge in Chicago is an example of an improvement which started such a ball rolling. The bridge opened a new travel artery. It was finished years ago, but new office buildings, new apartments, new stores, are still being built to take advantage of it. The bridge cost a few millions of dollars, but the buildings put up as a result of that bridge being there cost dozens of times that much. Without the bridge, the sites of the Wrigley Tower and other Chicago skyscrapers would still be vacant lots or occupied by three-story buildings."

Pass the bond issue! The employment situation here will be vastly improved. Values will be enhanced. Most important of all, new private building is bound to follow this great public expenditure.

Prouder Than the King

Clothes Make Men and Monkeys Vain

HIS MAJESTY'S LIVERY

When good King George of Britain rides out to open Parliament, he sits in a golden coach drawn by six horses. And this man in the picture sits on the "near" horse of the two leaders, to make sure that the horses will behave themselves.

You see how he is dressed, with the royal crown on his sleeve, fancy boots and breeches, and a cap of velvet.

He is PROUDER than the King, for, unlike the King, he does not know how LITTLE he amounts to.

He is HAPPIER than the King, for he has nothing to worry him.

Such is life. The organ grinder's monkey, with his little red jacket and hat, is as happy as though he were Napoleon Bonaparte without Bonaparte's worries. And the young man with a new straw hat on his head, and not much inside the head, is also perfectly happy. It is what we THINK we are, not what we really ARE, that gives us satisfaction. Many of us should be grateful for that.

Garrett P. Serviss Says:

The Story of Arcturus

IN JUNE evenings the great star Arcturus is seen on the meridian, as high up as the mid-summer sun, golden in hue, and glowing with great splendor on a clear, dark night when the moon is absent. Arcturus may be called the great star of summer. Its color accords with the ardent character of the season. Vega, its nearest rival, following it from the East, more than 60 degrees away, looks cold with its blue-white ray, a burning snowflake strayed from the frigid sky of winter. But Arcturus is a glow-coal, with orange-colored flames at times; and seen in a telescope, even the tiniest, it flushes the eye with gorgeous topaz-hued light. No other star is so rich in color when its rays are concentrated at the focus of a telescope.

The telescope, in proportion to the size of its object-glass, seems to carry the observer toward the star. But no telescope ever made can bring you near enough to Arcturus to reveal its awful solar disk, otherwise than as an intense core of auriferous light, growing brighter and brighter with continued approach.

But if you could embark in space, and fly with the speed of light toward Arcturus, after journeying on for about 20 years, you would see the sun diminished to a faint star, and Arcturus become a hundred fold as bright. After 40 years of continuous voyaging at the speed of 186,000 miles per second you would arrive near Arcturus, plunged in a golden daylight enormously brighter than that you had been accustomed to on the earth. But you would be unable to approach as near to that star as you now are to the sun, except at the cost of your life, consumed like a moth in the fury of its orange-yellow rays.

Arcturus is a hundred times greater than the sun in the amount of radiation it pours fourth, but it is believed to be older (in development) than the sun and further cooled. It has advanced from Class G (the yellow suns) to which our sun belongs, to Class K (the orange suns) of which Arcturus is the type. So much for a part of the scientific story of Arcturus.

In human history and tradition its story lies very deep. Arcturus is often called "Job's star," because of the imposing part that its name plays in our English translation of the Book of Job, when the Almighty speaking out of the whirlwind, demands of Job:

"Canst thou bind the sweet influence of Pleiades, or loose the bands of Orion? Canst thou bring forth Mazzaroth in his season, or canst thou guide Arcturus with his sons?"

The Pleiades we know; they are a group of stars; Orion we know: it is a great constellation; Mazzaroth is a mystery: we only know that it signified something in the heavens; but whether a star, a constellation, the Milky Way, or what not, who can say? But about Arcturus there can be no controversy—at least so far as the application of the name to a particular star is concerned. However, in ancient times the same name seems to have been applied to the whole constellation Bootes, of which Arcturus is the leading star. But while Orion is very conspicuous as a constellation, Bootes would hardly be noticed but for the great brilliance of Arcturus. The name is taken to mean "bear-driver," for Arcturus significantly follows the constellation of the Great Bear around the north pole of the heavens. Everybody knows that part of the Great Bear that is called the "Big Dipper." Continue the curve of the Dipper Handle some 40 degrees toward the south, and the eye is led to Arcturus, glowing in lone splendor. Remember that south means away from the pole star.

China Awake

ONE can never be certain of what may happen next in China, but in a longer reach one thing is sure. Japan will not permanently be able to coerce the Chinese people. Whatever ambitions its militarists have been cherishing in that direction had better be discarded as vain.

There was an incident in New York's Chinatown the other day which sheds light upon this point. A parade of Chinese numbering close to 5,000 marched in protest at Japan's threats of interference.

This demonstration, thousands of miles from the native scene, is an evidence of the vitality of Chinese nationalism. It admonishes us how strong must be the currents of feeling in China itself.

Japan's future as an industrial nation requires peaceful and growing trade with China. Its only possible basis is good will. Bullying and swagger get nowhere.

Japanese liberals, assuming that they are aware of that fact, will have to find the way to muzzle the grabbers if they want the next decades in the Far East to be years of plenty.

Repeat Your Facts

YOU have difficulty in remembering facts?

Then as soon as you hear something you want to remember, tell it as accurately as you can to another.

Perhaps you have noticed that your young dentist talks a great deal while he is doing his work.

The young doctor is prone to do the same when he visits you or you call at his office.

More than likely it is for the purpose of impressing his own mind.

You might find that the same thing would help you a lot.

Listening to facts, to lectures, to music, will not help you to remember or perform the things involved.

It is the telling it over and over, aloud, to another that does it.

You may have been out of school for some years and it troubles you to remember facts and figures, to make them your ready servants.

Then make them your own by this method of repeating to some-one.

Enumerate on paper, compare with the original and then tell someone.

Then the facts will become a part of your mind source.

The Rhyming Optimist

Gardens

SHE spends the glowing, golden days
Among her fragrant garden ways
Where pink and pansy smile,
For her, the secrets of the rose,
The lore white lilies can disclose,
The snowdrops' elfin wile.

Ah, can it be that garden sweets
And rainbow tints of calm retreats
Can of themselves impart
A living share of bloom and grace,
A subtle something from their place
Unto the human heart?

It must be true, else how could she
So filled with garden fragrance be,
Rose-gay and lily-fair?
How could she with the violets share
Such matchless modesty and wear
Such sweetness in her air?

Tales that are Told

Learning By Rote

"IN MY four years of Sunday school teaching," writes Miss L. R., "I have heard children mix sound and sense in a most amusing yet natural and innocent manner. Here are a few of their quaint perversions: One little girl began the Lord's Prayer—'Our Father chart in heaven, halloed be Thy name.' An English child heard of rendered another line, 'Lead us not into Thames Station.' The conclusion of the prayer was given by a third: 'For Thine is the kingdom and a pound of glory, etc.'

"A little fellow of four was heard to sing with devout earnestness:

'When shepherds washed their socks by night
All seated on the ground.'

"In another hymn the line, 'The gates of brass before him burst,' became 'He gave some brass before he burst.'

"Despite the seriousness of the subject it was hard not to laugh when another child, in repeating the line from the Creed: 'Suffered under Pontius Pilate,' got it 'Suffered under a bunch of spiders.' "—Boston Transcript.

Married Men's Flirtations

"WELLS and Bennett and Shaw and that lot, being elderly married men themselves, write books and plays about the grand good luck that elderly married men have in their flirtations with flappers. Well, it ain't so."

Jerome S. McWade, of Duluth, was responding jovially to a toast at a wedding breakfast.

"It ain't so," he repeated. "No, sir, it's the other way about. Like this.

"Old Jones and his wife were dressing for dinner in their palatial suite at an Atlantic City hotel.

" 'John,' says Mrs. Jones from her onyx and gold bathroom.

" 'Well?' says old John Jones from his.

" 'John, while we were having tea in the lounge I didn't like the way you stared at that blonde girl in red.'

"There was a short silence. Then Jones said:

" 'Well, she didn't, either.' "

No Sale

FARMER—Say, what would it cost me t' go in the sleepin' car as fur as Chicago?

Pullman Agent—Upper or lower berth?

Farmer—Why, is they any difference in price?

Pullman Agent—Yes, the lower is higher than the upper. You can take your choice, but most people take a lower even though it comes higher. You see, when you take an upper you have to get up to go to bed and get down when you get up. The upper is lower than the lower because it is higher, and—

Farmer—Never mind, young feller, I'll just go in the settin' car.

The Tape Line

S. H. GUGGENHEIM, New York financier, was speaking.

"Every man has a different tape line," he said, "his own special tape line, to measure his fellows by. The rich man measures his fellows by their wealth, the blue-blooded man by their blood, and so on.

"Once an important personage lay very ill, and I said to an editor at the club:

" 'How is Blanc today?'

" 'Blanc,' said the editor, 'passed on this afternoon.'

" 'Poor Blanc!' I said. 'Worth much?'

" 'Um—well—about a column,' said the editor."

It's Unreasonable

THE Countess de Perigny was talking about fashions to a girl reporter on her arrival in New York.

"Women's clothes are ever so much dearer than they were in the past," she ended, "and yet in the past it took two sheep to clothe a woman, while it only takes one silkworm now."

New York Day by Day
by
O.O. McINTYRE

PERHAPS no city in America responds so enthusiastically to a parade as New York. It costs Fifth avenue merchants thousands a year as a result of the suspension of business while paraders go marching by.

There are countless New Yorkers who, if given a uniform, will march themselves ga-ga. The parade is a definite part of the metropolitan consciousness—the irresistible urge to be noticed. Men of heavy affairs will slam down their desk tops to wear a plumed hat.

The parade is such an attraction that it has been seized upon by press agents as a method of exploiting subtly certain propoganda for which they have been retained. In the past year two of these spectacular stunts have thus been engineered.

New York seems divided between those eager to parade and those just as eager to watch from the sidelines. Spectators will begin lining Fifth avenue curbs before daylight on the day a parade is scheduled to march. Weather will not interfere.

Merchants board up plate glass windows and rope off entrance ways. Ambulances are often waiting in side streets of every block. Windows offering an excellent view are sold at enormous figures. Even speculators make their bit out of salable space.

Roof-tops and window ledges drip with a goggle-eyed humanity. There have been innumerable accidents among those who dropped from perilous positions while waiting for a parade to pass. Indeed, a parade is about the only thing that makes New York pause in its mad rush.

It will cheer itself hoarse and go home exhausted in hysterical happiness. During the Lindbergh welcome parade it was discovered an hour after the parade passed there was not a telephone book left in the biggest downtown skyscraper. They had been frantically torn up to use as confetti.

Tenth avenue in the Forties is in the grip of a usual summer desolation. The pictuesque characters who trail the circuses and street carnivals have departed from their customary haunts. Tenth avenue is their winter quarters and they will not be seen until fall.

Despite their migratory calling, most of them are uncannily thrifty, and come back to town with sufficient funds to butter over jobless days. There are restaurants along the street that are the rendezvous for clowns, acrobats, wire walkers and such.

And others patronized almost exclusively by shills, thimble riggers, barkers and others of the fly-by-night herd who thrive on human gullibility. There is also a boarding house for human freaks.

On Tenth avenue there is what is known as "sawdust aristocracy." Certain groups maintain a rigid aloofness from other groups. In some circles it would be known as class consciousness. Yet in distress, all are eager to lend a helping hand to their fellows.

Professional beggars find the Black Belt of Harlem one of the most prolific spots in New York for alms-seeking. Particularly do they hang around places where dice games and other forms of gambling are held. They know that winners have a superstitious fear of passing a beggar. The Chinese, too, rarely reject a mendicant's plea.

And with one exception there has never been a Chinese picked up by the police for begging. He was Old Horse and Wagon, a quaint half-blind Chinatown character of 10 years ago, who now sleeps with his ancestors.

The Bible Up to Date

By DR. FRANK CRANE

A new analytical reference Bible, just put out, marks a significant step in the progress of Bible study.

It is a far cry from the day when the investigating student had to read the Scriptures for himself and look up all the literature bearing upon the subject, and today, when the modern student has such a book as this in question before him.

The Bible, first of all, gives us the authorized English version of the Scriptures. This version will probably never be excelled, not because of its accuracy, but because of its literary beauty. It has become one of the standards that fix the English language. It is one of the landmarks of the English tongue.

No efforts to improve this translation have ever been quite successful because what they have gained in accuracy they have lost in dramatic beauty.

Along with this text the book presents all sorts of Bible helps.

There is an analysis of the Bible, taking up the various subjects mentioned in the book, there are excellent illustrations and maps. All the results of the research of years have been boiled down in preparing these helps.

You can find out easily by means of this analysis all that the Bible teaches on any subject.

In the back of the book is a condensation of Cruden's Concordance, the best concordance known, so that remembering any word of a text you can find the passage in which that word occurs.

This modern Bible ought to forestall any more bizarre and curious fad-making out of detached and incoherent texts of Scripture.

All the light of modern scholarship and learning has been concentrated here upon the words of this remarkable book.

Even today the Bible is the most widely read and probably the most valuable work in existence. No book in the world compares with it in influence and importance. Whether you believe it or not you cannot deny its extraordinary effect upon human thinking.

OH, THESE WOMEN!

By LEOLA ALLARD.

SEVERAL movie actresses who divorced their husbands are contemplating reconciliations and may be re-married to the men they divorced.

Probably the more they saw of the others, the better they liked what they had.

A man in Texas once got frightfully weary of his wife. She had a bad habit of insisting that he eat things he didn't care for, and if he wouldn't eat them she would deliver a lecture on why he should. It was followed usually by silence from him and another lecture by her. Occasionally he uttered one word, usually the kind his mother used to follow up with a soap mouthwash.

One night the wife told him he really must eat his lettuce and tomato salad. He had seen much too much of her in the past year and almost any straw was likely to be the backbreaking one. He gently told her he didn't want it. She pressed the argument and he got up and left the table swearing he never would come back into that house. He wanted a divorce.

During their separation, the man went about with several women friends. One in particular entertained him often. One night she was entertaining him at her home for dinner and she trotted out a delicious lettuce and tomato salad. His mind began to throb with unhappy memories.

"Oh, do have some, its really so nice and you can learn to like tomatoes!" The lady plunked the plate of salad down in front of him.

"I don't eat tomatoes," said the man feeling a bit sickish. "I never eat tomatoes. I don't like tomatoes." A lecture followed on the good tomatoes could do even if you hated them, and the lady said nothing was so good for the stomach, the liver, the mind, the hair, the hands, as tomatoes.

"I don't like tomatoes," said the man, his eyes getting that cold hard look. "I don't want any."

"My salad dressing makes them better than just ordinary tomatoes, and you should learn to eat them," she insisted.

There wasn't any divorce.

Poor Year for Candor

IT IS quite true, as Mrs. George Horace Lorimer told the conference of Pennsylvania women, that "the American people are entitled to uncontrolled conventions, to unbought and uncorrupted campaigns, and to issues clearly stated and candidly met."

Their title will not, however, be honored automatically. To realize just one of the obstacles in its way, mention prohibition to a candidate.
